"Back in the States."

CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN.

July 1st, 1866.

There may be nothing of interest worthy of publication that your correspondent has seen or done for eight months past, but during that time he has been traveling through the Eastern States after an absence of more than fifteen years, enjoying the hospitalities of old friends, and observing the progress of events during that time. It is not easy for a resident of the Pacific coast to reconcile himself to the East, and I find in my own case what many have said before, that life in Oregon or California unfits a person for returning here. The every day civilization of the Atlantic coast, lacks something to one who has mingled with the enterprise and partaken of the variety found "at home." Communities here are generally made up of people born and reared in one vicinity, while with you, society is composed of contributions from every State domestic and foreign, and combines the enterprise and intelligence of all.

NEW YORK CITY.

We cannot compass in any sense the wonders and beauties of the great metropolis, which as the years pass by create along the great business thoroughfares, palaces of trade that the world can not excel, in place of the homely but substantial structures I knew of old, and whose up town residence have grown in magnificence as shoddy, petroleum stock-jobbing and regular trade have built up fortunes. The lovers of rural scenes, too, can go for a sixpence from the lower city, and leaving its tumble and dust behind, ride in a street car five miles, still within the city, to Central Park, where millions have been expended to charm the senses and give the tired denizen of town a chance to ruralize whenever they can spare the time. There are graveled walks for the people and magnificent drives for the wealthy, and I cannot conceive anything that would more astonish one unused to such scenes than to to place him some lovely June twilight on the ramble of the Park and let him see the moving throng of holiday pedestrians and the passing turn-outs of fashionable equipage belonging to the upper ten. All New York is regulated by a most efficient police, and the gay uniformed officials, peculiar to the Park, patrol each walk and drive, maintaining perfect order and decorum, watching all suspicious characters to prevent theft, and arresting the mad career of any John who forgets the rule that proscribes a faster gait than seven miles an hour. Change the scene to January and you have crowds hurrying to the skating ponds. The careful city provides by flooding the hollows with Croton water, when male and female, old and young, native and foreign, mingle and whirl on the well kept ice, for every midnight sees the surface scraped off clean and sometimes flooded anew, to be in readiness for the pleasure of [illegible] of to-morrow.

New York is indeed a wonderful place, now rivaling the Capitol of Europe, not only in commercial importance, but in its magnificence and extravagance. I spent much time there (at home) in the society of old friends, visited Wall street where Babel seems to have broken loose when the stock and gold operators hold their "open board" just out of it in Bond street, and made my daily travel up and down Broadway. It was always possible to find a few Oregonians at Tilton's, where they most do congregate, and during the winter the representation grew in extent, until one could feel quite at home in the society of Web-feet, mostly Portlanders. Few of them who represented mining interests, met with much success in the sale of them. Once in a while a mine would find purchasers, but there is no excitement or speculation in favor of gold and silver mines. Eastern capital has determined to see some results before making further investments.

OREGON AND IDAHO MINES.

There are innumerable mines offered for sale from Arizona, New Mexico, Mexico, California, Montana, Nevada and Colorado, as well as from Idaho and Oregon. It is a melancholy fact that all men who desire to sell mines are not particular as to what they sell, so long as they can make a sale; and more unfortunate still, such a person can spin as long a yarn in favor of his particular property, as the most honest man living can of an "A No. 1" property. As a consequence, so much swindling is perpetrated that it works against the real interests of the mining region, which are hindered and retarded in development by every unfortunate investment.

Between mining and petroleum operations, those who have money have learned that prospectuses are suspicious articles; and I scarce have a friend in New York, (and I know many wealthy men there,) who has not been victimized by some "permanent investment." Hereafter, owners of mines must calculate to develope them until satisfactory proof is obtained of their reliable value, and then they may enlist capital to assist in the process of working. The time is past, as a rule, when undeveloped mines will sell for enormous prices, as some have been sold, and it is unreasonable to expect it. Offer a mine to the consideration of capitalists, and they wonder if it is a good thing why the owners are not willing to retain it, when capital is willing to develop and work it for a fair proportion of profit.

People have little idea of the immense scope of mineral country we have in the United States, and to discover it one only needs to come to the East and watch the mines offered for sale. He will soon learn that, however good his interests may be, the capitalists of New York are daily besieged to take hold on any terms they may choose, and develop mines, claiming to be just as good. Much New York and other eastern capital has been invested in Owyhee and South Boise some profitably and much unprofitably. When the the yield of bullion from those districts commences to respond to these investments and dividends are proclaimed on money placed there, then, and not before, some speculative tendency may develop; but not even then anything resembling the excitement peculiar to the past history of Nevada, Washoe, Humboldt and Reese river. I speak at some length for the benefit of our northern mining regions, and thinking a little sound sense may as well pervade mining matters as others. Miners err in holding undeveloped lodes at too high a figure, and they complain terribly that money don't come and outbid their expectations, while the general fact as that those who have been sharp enough to make money are generally as able to keep it for proper investment. A man going a stranger to New York to sell a mine must act through some broker, who, for a consideration, will try to sell it. Then the scheming commences. The broker divides the thing around in some way to secure the needed help—perhaps sells at nominally an enormous figure, by gulling some men out of money to pay for the mine, and something over for his trouble, while he and his friends actually retain the majority of the stock, and the original owner gets a pitiful sum and some stock. He goes back a wiser man and not much richer, while some villainous operator has fattened by using him as a bait. But all that is becoming "played out." Petroleum overdid the thing, and it would astonish simple minded men to know that property without valid title was got for a song.

SINCE THE WAR

There is little to remind the stranger at the East of the late terrible conflict the nation has passed through. There is more than ever of bustle and wealth, increasing trade and population. Prices have increased with a vengeance, and the cost of building material has retarded improvement so that swarming cities cannot accommodate the increase of citizens. Such is the case at the East, and all through the North, but the Middle States show war's ravages, while the Southern States show war's destitution. Even they are working out the problem of their future, and finding free labor no bad thing compared with slave labor. My travels have extended to vicinities where hostile armies ravaged and guerrillas and bushwhackers murdered and robbed. I haven't stated my present whereabouts, but I am in the Border States, and in the business which I surpervise, quite a number of ex-rebel officers and soldiers are employed, and one ex-contraband colored individual who is the life of the neighborhood with his "nigger wit." Only last evening I heard two young fellows just out of the "Army of the Shenandoah" singing "Rally round the Flag" enthusiastically, and, for all I can see, they and the "boys in blue" also employed, harmonize well, frequently exchanging the epithets "rebel" and "Yankee" in good natured banter. The people, too, differing in political sentiments have one common sympathy, for the war has served them much alike. The Rebel armies robbed the Unionists and the Union armies cleaned out the Rebels. Almost all seem willing to cry quits, and are anxious to regain the independence and comfort they had "before the war," but it will take years to accomplish it. The bitter rebels are those who did the blustering and who live and bluster still. A few day ago while riding along, I met a traveler of some considerable intelligence, mounted on an Arabian horse of considerable metal. He was a lawyer of some prominence and a fire-eater par excellence. He soon discoursed on National politics, and denounced very vehemently the course of the radicals, and declared with an oath that it would suit him to "stand and see the whole American continent sink into an unfathomed abyss." I had the presence of mind to ask him where he would stand, and recommended Mt. Hood as a cool place affording an excellent view. He had the good sense to take the joke and laugh at his own folly.

But as a general thing, one hears no wrangle in the Border States among the people. They have suffered all Stephens predicted for them in his celebrated speech in the Georgia Convention, and have no desire to talk much less to fight. The Border States are not any too well [illegible] with schools, and ignorance and vice abound in some localities. One ex-confederate I found too lazy to make any use of, and discharged him. His ignorance was astonishing. Hearing a discussion about fast railroad trains, he ventured the guess that "Adams' Express is about the fastest road of all," and declared "If I'd knowed how the derned abolitionists was a going to act I'd been dogon'd afore I'd a surrendered." Providentially "Ed." didn't know.

The "colored individual," as he is fond of designating himself, is an uncommonly likely specimen of his class. Raised a slave in Eastern Virginia near Richmond, and having served his young master as a body servant in the "Army of Virginia" he brings to bear on his present situation, in addition to native contraband wit, the experience of life in the Confederate Capitol and army adjourning.

MISCELLANEOUS.

I met once, in traveling, an officer of the 5th Artillery, who stands guard one-fourth of the time in the presence of Jeff. Davis at Fortress Monroe. His account of Davis and Clay was interesting. The former was engaged principally in reading his Bible, and frequently indulged in discussions on national affairs. He represented life at the Fortress as very dull, nearly as much so for the guards as for the prisoners. He remarked that it seemed impossible that Clay could have been guilty of the crimes charged, as his experience and manner denoted a perfect gentleman, whose character partook of every element and trait of kindness and courtesy. The same view seems to have been taken by the President, as he has been released since that time.

At Washington I visited the Gardiners. Many will remember Col. Gardiner, once Surveyor General, and his sons Clinton and Charles, employed afterwards in the northern boundary survey. The old gentleman is still in the Treasury Department. Clinton is a man of family, and "Charley" is the same as of old. This reminds me that Walter Davis, well known for his Southern sympathies, met Senator Nesmith on going east last summer, and in answer to the question of the Senator, "What do you think of the rebellion now, Walter," the former freely owned up that the South was beaten. Said he, "I didn't think it could be done; that is so; and I wouldn't have believed it if I hadn't seen the scoundrels, the war-dogs that did it. I never believed the Yankees could turn out such men, but I have seen them, and am not ashamed to own whipped since." [illegible] "Why, Walter, who did you see?" "Charley Gardiner and Rob[illegible]!" The Portland folks will remember the latter as a nice young man at Vancouver, some years ago. It seems the two had been in some comfortable and safe military employ as Adjutants or Commissioners, or Quartermasters. The Government was once thrown into tremors by a Chinook telegram sent from the field by General Ingalls to his friend Nesmith, telling him in jargon to hurry out there if he wanted to see a big battle. Some Columbia river linguist finally came to the rescue with a translation, and the fears of [illegible] were dissipated.

As you will perceive, I have not attempted to touch on current news. The telegraph tells you if Europe is at war, if the cholera spreads in New York, and what the world is at. I have merely sent you a few [illegible] by the way.

Yours, &c., S. A. C.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE.

SATURDAY MORNING, AUGUST 4, 1866.

Something Constitutional at Last.

The soothing influences of "my policy" are accomplishing charming results in Louisiana. Reconciliation on strictly "constitutional principles" has budded, blossomed and brought forth fruit in at least one place besides Memphis. Louisiana, as one of the States which have been "restored to all their functions in the Union," and which, "say what you will, are in perfect harmony with the National Government," presents a spectacle which, without doubt, is exceedingly cheering to the heart of A. Johnson. Nothing that has transpired for a year so completely vindicates "my policy." It is hardly a twelvemonth since the new plan for making treason odious went into operation; yet, see what splendid results already! A great triumph has been achieved! Louisiana is redeemed from the tyranny of loyalty!

A State Convention, having for its object the amendment of the Constitution of Louisiana, was called to assemble at New Orleans on the 30th of July. This body was the Convention of 1864, and was re-assembled by virtue of a resolution of its own, adopted at its first session. But the "reconstructed," relying on the approbation and help of their "tribune," of the White House, resolved to evince their devotion to "my policy" by preventing the Convention from holding its session—even if the employment of violence should be necessary to accomplish that object. The rebel "General" Harry Hays, sheriff of New Orleans, who was pardoned by Johnson that he might take his office, and that treason might be made doubly odious thereby, headed this pacificatory movement, and organized a posse of rebels like himself, to lead the riot against the Convention. Certainly. Why shouldn't he? Isn't Harry Hays "loyal?" Don't he believe enthusiastically in "my policy"—fealty to which is the established and infallible test of loyalty? And as the Convention was odious to his brother rebels, to himself and to the man who signed the pardon he carries in his pocket, why shouldn't he and his fellow "loyalists," late of the Confederacy, kill a few of the members of the obnoxious Convention, arrest the remainder and fill the lockups with them, and then proceed to demonstrate their superiority over the blacks by killing a few dozen hateful, though unoffending, "niggers?" It was such a rare chance to illustrate Johnson's idea of "a war of the races!"

To establish beyond cavil the fact that all this was in strict conformity with "my policy," the Chairman of the Local [illegible] "Democratic" Committee visits the White House, has an interview with the author of the harmonious reconstruction scheme now in operation in New Orleans, and receiving assurances that everything was strictly regular, telegraphs to the "reconstructed" rebel Attorney General of Louisiana to arrest every man connected with the Convention—that "we have seen the President, and he will do all that can be expected." Not willing to leave the matter under a shade of uncertainty, A. Johnson telegraphs with his own hand to the Governor of Louisiana asking by what authority the Convention was convened and plainly signifying his displeasure at the proceeding. This discloses a new feature in "my policy." Here at least we get something strictly constitutional. That "lawless and revolutionary body," the Congress of the United States, has been meddling with State rights so long that it now rejoices patriotic [illegible] to see his Excellency, A. Johnson, "defender of the faith, &c., asserting the sovereignty of the States by practically denying the right of the people of the State of Louisiana to hold a Convention for the purpose of proposing amendments to their State Constitution. It is peculiarly gratifying to witness the magisterial air with which he addresses Gov. Wells, requiring him to rende[r] to "Andrew Johnson, President," a reason for his conduct in convening or permitting to convene, an assemblage of persons hostile to "my policy." What business have the "radical traitors" of Louisiana to hold a Convention in opposition to the wishes of returned Confederate loyalists? "Treason must be made odious"; therefore the only truly loyal men of of Louisiana must give up their State to the "reconstructed" Confederates.

The boast of the President is that his "policy" is working miracles in the way of allaying violence, establishing peace, and inducing harmony among the people of the South. The state of things that exists in Louisiana is a specimen of what that "policy" does actually pr[oduce]. Instead of [illegible] feeling there is violence and bloodshed; instead of security, there is lawlessness, rapine and murder. The country is now witnessing the results of the statesmanship which has undertaken to give obedience to law by letting traitor criminals go unpunished, and by exalting them above loyal men.

The President's message in regard to the Constitutional amendment, and the manner in which it has been received by Congress and the Union party throughout the country, reminds an Eastern journal of the lines:

> "I can't marry you, my pretty maid,
> Nobody axed you, sir, she said."

This tells the whole story.

One of the most curious facts of the period, and one of the wise mysteries of "my policy" is the imprisonment of the Fenian leaders, while leading traitors against the United States Government are allowed the liberty of pardon or parole.

A. Johnson telegraphs to the Governor of Louisiana, asking by what authority he calls a Convention in that State. "By what authority does A. Johnson call his Convention at Philadelphia?

Old Thad. Stevens says: "The Vice Presidency ought to be abolished; for its success thus far does not justify its continuance." "Moses" never received a neater thrust than that.

The last regiment of Illinois soldiers (the 12th Cavalry) in the service of the Government, was discharged at Springfield in the month of June.

FROM IDAHO.

The Mountaineer of the 3d contains the following:

A RICH STRIP.

We were shown during the week, at the assay office of Mr. C. S. Miller, of this city, some very rich silver ore, from a lead recently discovered in the Flint District, Owyhee. The lead is called "Sheridan, or Poorman of Flint District," and was discovered by Mr. L. J. Swart, formerly of this city. Mr. Miller has made two assays from the rock, the first of which produced $48 16 in gold and $2,659 74 in silver, and the second, $33 10 in gold and $2,648 05 in silver to the ton. The lead is seven feet wide, and has been traced for about a mile. The ore assayed by Mr. Miller was not selected, but is an average of the rock taken from the mine. It is thought that this lead will far out-rival the original Poorman lead of Owyhee in richness and extent when it is fully developed. We congratulate Swart on being one of the "Poormen of Flint District."

FROM THE UPPER COLUMBIA.

We clip the following from the Mountaineer of the 3d:

FROM PEN D'OREILLE LAKE.

Mr. Twitchell arrived in town from Pen d'Oreille Lake a few days since. He reports quite a settlement springing up at the lake. Several houses are being built, and a good trade is destined to set in there. The machinery for the boats now being built on Clark's Fork, was shipped by the way of White Bluffs to the Lake. Teamsters are hauling freight over the road from White Bluffs to the Pen d'Oreille at one cent per pound less than from Wallula. The road is in fine order, and teamsters express the opinion that it is the best mountain wagon road east of the Cascades. Whatever may be said of the White Bluffs route, it is certain to be the main traveled road to the Montana mines. The best indication of the road being a good one is, that teamsters are hauling freight over it at one cent per pound less than by other routes. The cost of transportation always indicates the best route.

FROM BIG BEND.—A private letter dated Colville, July 21st, says that the damages to the steamer Forty-Nine were [illegible], and she left on that day for La Porte, expecting to return on the 28th. The river at Colville had fall[en] away to the extent of twenty-one feet. The reports from Big Bend were flattering. Some six hundred men were [illegible] employed at last dates.

By Overland Telegraph.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO AUGUST 3.

President's Message to the Queen.

HEART'S CONTENT, August 31.—The President's Message to the Queen, containing 77 words, passed through the cable in eleven minutes, and was delivered to the Queen almost immediately. The Great Eastern is now firing a salute in honor thereof.

A celebration in honor of the success of the cable is being held at Valentia, Ireland, this afternoon. The Albany and Terrible leave here to-morrow morning for the spot where the cable of last year was lost. The Great Eastern and Medway will follow in about one week.

Financial and Commercial.

NEW YORK, August 2.—The Post's money article says a very lively movement prevailed in the Stock Exchange to-day. Government stocks are steady, but inactive. Cotton is dull and prices easier. Flour is dull at 10c.@20c. lower. Corn is 1c. lower.

After the board the old 5-20s were ¾ better, supposed to be owing to the news by the cable; but no public news has transpired to-day.

Twelve [illegible] ages were entered to-day for Europe; receipts, $1,813 cash, in gold.

Delegates to the Philadelphia Convention.

CHICAGO, July 3d.—The following are the names of delegates to the Philadelphia Convention: J. H. Browning, T. J. Evans, A. J. Cook, Jno. McClernand, Wm. R. Morrison, T. L. Dickey, Sam'l G. Marshall, Jesse O. Dorton, S. W. Ross, Anthony Thornton, James Chambers, J. R. Doolittle, Alex. W. Retsall and Chas. Crocker. The above are from Illinois.

From Minnesota.—Jas. Norton, Franklin Steele, H. M. Rece. From Florida, Wm. McKeen, Geo. Swans, Jno. S. Maxwell. Delegates are being generally appointed in the Southern States of the most eminent military men.

The New York Times having editorially declared it would be imprudent for such men as Vallandigham and the Wood brothers to appear as delegates, Vallandigham publishes a defiant letter defying the Convention to exclude him or any other who may appear. He says bygones must be by-gones, and he and his party have more to forgive of Doolittle & Co., than they to forgive of him.

The Georgia Convention declares its intention that the Convention shall unqualifiedly pronounce for a repeal of the test oath, which the call for the Convention does not.

George Ashmun and John Q. Adams, son of the Minister to England, have joined the movement in Massachusetts. The Boston Traveler regrets to learn that Charles Francis Adams accedes to it. Judge Benjamin R. Curtis publishes a letter endorsing the movement.

Doolittle, in a speech at Madison, declares that the only qualification for membership to the Convention, is that the delegates unqualifiedly accept the terms laid down in the call, and abide the issue with the new party, when records of individuals shall be forgotten. The Convention promises to be a large and distinguished assemblage, and as the number of delegates is not limited, all rival setts will be admitted. Indeed, confessedly there is no power to exclude any who accept the terms of the call. The Philadelphia Age of yesterday, exposes what it calls a Radical plot to mob the Convention.

The Louisiana Convention.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—The Louisiana Convention did not as was expected re-assemble yesterday, but Judge Abel again charged the jury that they should indict the members for disturbing the peace and plotting against the statutes of the State. He declared that the cause of the riot had no parallel in history.

The following additional telegraphic correspondence is published:

EXECUTIVE OFFICE, August 1st, 1866.

To Albert Voorhies, Lieut. Governor, and Adrian Heron, Atty. General, New Orleans, Louisiana: Were the civil authorities State or Federal, conferred with by General Baird before he declared martial law? Could not civil authorities State and Federal, enforce the law and pr[eserve] order with the aid of the military and without the [interference of] martial law? I hope that order has been restored and the riot was not as disastrous as reported. Please show this dispatch to General Baird.

(Signed) ANDREW JOHNSON.

In order that the following from Gen. Sheridan may be understood, it should be stated that he was absent from New Orleans when the disturbance occurred in that city.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 1st, 1866.

To Gen. U. S. Grant, Washington: You are doubtless aware of the [illegible] riot which occurred in this city on the 30th. The Convention of 1864 met on the 30th for the alleged purpose of remodeling the present constitution of the State. The leaders were politicians, and the action of the Convention was liable to produce a b[reach] of the public peace. I had made up my mind to arrest the men if the proceedings were calculated to destroy the tranquility of the country, but I had no cause for action until they committed an overt act. About forty whites and blacks were killed and about one hundred and sixty wounded. Everything is now quiet, but I deem it best to maintain military supremacy in the city for a few days until the matter is fully investigated. I believe the sentiment of the general community is one of general regret at this uncalled for cruelty, and that the police could have made any arrests they saw fit without [sacrificing] lives.

(Signed.) SHERIDAN, Maj. Gen. Com'dg.

FROM THE NORTH.

Arrival of the California—Union of the Colonies.

VICTORIA, Aug. 3.—The steamer California from San Francisco arrived to-day and will leave to-morrow for New Westminster. News received by the mail to-day states that a bill uniting the colonies of Vancouver Island with British Columbia has been introduced into the Imperial Parliament and allowed the united Parliament twenty-three [members].

Answered.

The Herald makes this inquiry:

"We ask the Oregonian if it wouldn't be just as honest to specify the party pledge which Mr. Doolittle has violated, as it would to persist in [ass]ailing him with vituperative epithets; without specifying any charges?

We had thought that Doolittle's recreancy to the principles he once professed was so glaring that no person could need to have his obliquities enumerated one by one, so as to decide whether he is now true or false to his party. But as his friend of the Herald, who saw him in Washington in 1862, and who there received assurances from him that he would yet go back to the Democratic party, asks this question, we will "specify" one or two of the party pledges he has violated." The Union party took the position that treason to the Government of the United States is a crime. Mr. Doolittle concurred in that view at the time of his election in 1864, and until within the last year. He has repudiated that principle, and now holds with A. H. Stephens and the editor of the Herald that the late war which was forced on the country by the South was nothing more than a legitimate species of argument resorted to by Jefferson Davis and his confreres to decide the controversy between the States and the National Government—to determine whether the Union should be maintained or the South have its independence; and that as the employment of this species of argument by the South, was, under the circumstances, permissible and proper, resistance to the authority of the United States was no crime. In short, Mr. Doolittle has forgotten his former phillippics against treason and holds that the rebels by their conduct have forfeited no rights; that the moment they ceased to resist they were entitled to claim all the immunities of citizens, and that as they committed no treason, they are not liable to punishment. This is essentially his position, though he disguises it somewhat by general phrases and unmeaning terms. It was not his position when he was elected, any more than Johnson's position when he fulminated against treason is the same as that held by him now. We "specify" therefore that Doolittle and Johnson have violated the pledges they gave to deal with treason as the most heinous crime that can be committed against our laws.

Again, Doolittle is on the record in favor of the abolition of slavery. He was elected Senator on that issue. His party had a right to expect that he would not only labor for the nominal overthrow of that accursed institution, but that he would also see that the freedom of the late slave was (in the language of the Constitution) "enforced by appropriate legislation." Yet what does he do? When a bill is proposed in Congress to give an emancipated people the power to defend their persons, to protect their property and to enforce those rights without which the name of freedom would have been a cheat, Mr. Doolittle votes against it! Here we "specify" again the party pledge he has broken. That his constituents regarded him as having violated his faith toward his party, is evidenced by their having at once asked him to resign.

Furthermore, he is guilty toward his party of now conspiring with its enemies to overthrow it. This is a thing which no person of political or moral rectitude will do. The Union party has the same aims now as when it honored the ingrates who are seeking to destroy it. The crimes which are punishable are not the only crimes. There is (or should be) a legal penalty for him who betrays his country. For him who betrays his friends the law provides no punishment. The betrayer of his party is also exempt from legal prosecution. But in a moral sense how much better is he who betrays his party than he who betrays his private friends? He who seeks elevated place only to disappoint the hopes and frustrate the aims of the party which has trusted him, is only less reprehensible than he who proves a traitor to his whole country.

Doolittle is a representative of a certain class of men who have acted with the Union party heretofore, but who are quitting it now. In singling him out, we have merely desired to speak of him as an example of the rest. Ab uno disce omnes.

STATE ITEMS.

Several teams loaded last week at the Dalles with goods for Owyhee.

A worm, somewhat resembling the cut-worm, is said to be ravaging the potato crops in Polk county.

The election for Chief and Assistant Engineers of the Fire Department at the Dalles, will take place on Monday the 6th.

The Willamette Manufacturing Company at Salem, has laid the foundation of a large warehouse adjoining its flouring mills.

The annual "Exhibit" of Jackson county finances shows receipts, $10,492 38; expenditures, $11,595 08; outstanding county orders, $15,236 90; total indebtedness exclusive of delinquencies to the State, $13,279 28.

Work has been resumed on the Davenport tunnel, and from indications it is thought that the workmen cannot be far from the lead. The rock through which the tunnel is being run is very hard, and but a few inches can be drilled per day. So says the Sentinel.

The farmers in the "red hills" south of this place, (Salem) inform us that the squirrels this year are destroying large quantities of grain, and appear in great numbers, having evidently received reinforcements for the fall campaign. So says the Agriculturist.

A correspondent asks us "Has Postal Agent Q. A. Brooks a suc[cessor] in Oregon, or is he the sole agent for this coast?" Mr. Brooks is the only agent on this coast and all postal communications should be sent to him, at San Francisco.

The largest lump of gold we have ever heard of being found in the Northern mines, was taken out a few days since at Olive Creek. It weighed eighty-five pounds and had fifty pounds of pure gold. So says the Mountaineer. The lump is a large one—and so is the story.

Sixteen Snake Indians were recently captured by the soldiers at Ft. Klamath, and confined in the guard-house. Their women and children, numbering about forty, have been placed on the Reservation. On the 15th, three of the imprisoned Indians attempted an escape. One of them was shot and killed.

A farmer answers through the Agriculturist, the inquiry, "How to kill rose bushes," some time since published in that paper, from a farmer in Lane county. He says: "My plan has been to graze them to death with sheep, and it has been quite successful. The sheep, if allowed, or compelled to run among them, continue to eat the leaves and buds, while starting and growing, and the bushes with this savage treatment soon die out, root and branch."

The Sentinel says: Perhaps there is no place of equal extent on the Pacific coast, that offers such inducements to the tourist, the painter, the angler, the hunter, or the invalid, as this county, (Jackson). * * * Scarcely a week passes without its hunting party, and they come back regretting only that they could not stay longer. We hear of several companies that intend going out next month, when the mountain huckleberries will be ripe and the hunting and fishing season will be in its prime.

Says the Mountaineer, "By letters received from Canyon City, we learn that the miners in that country are all doing well. The diggings on the Main John Day are paying beyond the expectations of the miners. The mines on Olive and Elk creeks are also turning out better than was anticipated. The Indians have again made their appearance on the road, and the old work of running off stock has commenced."

THE WEEKLY OREGONIAN.

The Weekly Oregonian is published this morning. It contains the latest telegraphic news from the East and California, a selection of the best articles appearing in The Daily Oregonian,—full and reliable news from the Mines, and the most copious commercial information published by any paper in the State.

The average amount of reading matter in the Weekly Oregonian is double that published by any other journal in Oregon, and in the particular of Commercial statistics and the Markets we aim to make it the most reliable, more especially in matters pertaining to Oregon interests.

☞ Single copies 12½ cents, or $3 00 per year, to any part of the United States, or British Columbia.

Base Ball.—The match game of base ball, played on the grounds of the "Pioneer Club" of this State, in this city last evening, was very successfully performed. The sides were pretty evenly chosen, and the Captains drew lots for their selection of the players, after the lists were formed. The results of the match, which are given below, shows conclusively that the "Pioneer's" can safely challenge any similar organization for a match, and be almost sure of winning, with picked players. As compared with a game played at San Francisco on June 24th, between the "Atlantic Club" of that city, and "Lincoln Club" of Oakland, the victory belongs to the Club of this city, by a score of from three to eleven runs, and it beats a match made by the "Rocky Mountain Club," of Virginia City, Montana, by severals runs on each side, the fielding being so close that there were no runs made in some of the innings. We consider that the "Pioneer Club" have established for themselves a reputation of some consequence, by last evening's exercise. There was a tolerably fair attendance, but some of the visitors were disappointed, having arrived on the ground at the conclusion of the game. We trust we shall witness more playing of this kind soon. The following is the report of the scorer:

Steel was put out 2; Bechtel, 2; Ladd, 4; Wadhams, 3; Parish, 3; Barstow, 7; C. Upton, 3; W. Warren, 3. The fielding was so close that no home runs were made during the game by either nine. The expertness displayed by both sides is deserving of high commendation. The batting was excellent. Notwithstanding the irregularity of the field, the record shows that but two balls were missed. The weather was highly favorable, being cool, cloudy and still. The Batting Nine—Capt. St[illegible] won by but 4. The Fielding Nine—in three innings, played after the match—won by 5. L. ANDERSON, Umpire.

An Avalanche.—Mr. John Brazee, who has lately been out in the vicinity of Mount Hood, surveying for a route by which Hood river can be turned into Mill Creek, for the purpose of furnishing a water power at Dalles City, has returned. On Saturday last he, and the party with him, witnessed one of the most magnificent [illegible] probably ever beheld by man. In this State, being no less than the slide of an immense quantity of snow on Mount Hood. The field was of such large proportions, and moved with such great velocity that the air above was filled with particles, accompanied that it [illegible] like one [illegible] of light dust. After it had cleared away Mr. Brazee examined the locality minutely with the aid of a glass, and he judges that the snow moved at [illegible] the [illegible] fourths of a mile, and the gap laid bare on the side of the mountain was considered to be nearly five miles in extent from each extremity. It must have been a grand sight. We learn that a party of gentlemen, who have been to the mountain on an excursion recently, were traveling the snow in that locality but a day or two previous to the slide. To have been upon it on Saturday, at the time of the avalanche, would have been their almost certain [illegible], and that they were not there was most fortunate, and may very properly be considered by them a "hair breadth escape." The atmosphere in the vicinity of Mount Hood has been hazy for some days past but the spot can be seen from Portland quite distinctly the first clear day, as it is on the south west side.

Going Ahead.—The season is at present very favorable for the building interests of our city, and the several really excellent structures in process of erection are rapidly going ahead. Mr. E. M. Burton has the work well started on the brick block of Messrs. Ainsworth, Reed, [illegible], and others, 200 by 90 feet, adjacent to the wharf of the Oregon Steam Navigation Company, which was so long interrupted by the high water. The same contractor has two fine two story brick buildings up for Seller and [illegible] opposite Arrigoni's, and one at the corner of Front and Alder, for Mr. Blumauer, three stories high, is progressing rapidly. Messrs. Goodenough & Clark are building for Messrs. Sevier & Co., on Front st., below Oak, which will be "A No. 1." This building is two stories in hight, 60 by 80 feet, the lower floor divided into stores, and the upper floor one room, with high ceiling, calculated for a hall. Mr. John Nestor is pushing the work along on a corner building for Mr. C. M. Carter, three stories, of brick, 50 feet on Front by 100 on Alder, which will be a credit to the entire business portion of the city. The same gentleman is preparing to build immediately, for Mr. Walter Moffitt, a [illegible] brick at the corner of Front and Main. Several new brick [illegible] have been built the [illegible] that are occupied. On all of these buildings, with one exception, we notice that the iron materials for the front bears the imprint of our home foundries.

Valuable Donations.—Dr. B. R. Davenport has liberally donated to the Portland Library Association, six volumes of a rare work entitled "Mineral, Vegetable, and Animal Chemistry," accompanied by an atlas "Classica," or [illegible] maps of ancient geography. These works are rare and of great value, and will be highly prized by Bibliographers. Dr. Jackson, of Polk county, has also [illegible] the Association with the complete works of [illegible], including his celebrated "Arcana Celestia," and "Apocalypse Explained," in all about 25 volumes. The Association is also indebted to the liberality of H. W. Corbett, Esq., for a donation of $100 in aid of the Library fund, and to Mr. E. St. John for a [illegible] bust of Lincoln. We are gratified to acknowledge these additions to the attractions of the rooms. The library [illegible] now upwards of 2,000 volumes of valuable works, to which additions are constantly being made. Those of our citizens not already members will find the rooms very desirable for literary ease and improvement, and applications for membership may be made at the room daily, from 12 to 1 P. M., and from 7 to 9 in the evening. Initiation fees $4, monthly dues, $1. The following are the officers for the ensuing year: L. H. Wakefield, President; Henry Failing, Recording Secretary; Theo. E. Miner, Secretary; Directors—W. S. [illegible], Wm. Strong, P. C. Schuyler jr., B. Goldsmith, C. H. Lewis, H. W. Corbett, Chas. E. [illegible], W. S. Caldwell, E. D. Shattuck.

A New Wheel.—Mr. David [illegible] has invented a wheel for wheelbarrows, for use in the mines where timber is scarce, which may be both cheaply and easily made. The axletree and spokes are made of staves clasped by iron bands and a cast socket and pinion at each end of the tree. Common oak barrel staves are as good as anything to make them of. The advantage of the wheel is that it can be made anywhere and taken to pieces at will. In places where timber is scarce, the wheel will be introduced and used generally. Mr. R. is at present in this city getting up a lot of them for shipment to Owyhee and Boise.

Very Lucky.—A gentleman who lost a package of money recently, advertised it in the Oregonian. He says this is the first instance in which he has found that advertising did not pay, but he believes that the fault of his not getting the money back is more to be attributed to the dishonesty of the person finding the package, than to any lack of the benefits of advertising. Very likely this is so. But to place another construction upon the circumstance it may be that the money is in the hands of some person who is not in the city, but who is likely to yet see the advertisement, and will return the package.

Public Thoroughfares.—A communication from one of our most enterprising citizens, containing some excellent suggestions relating to the above subject, is unavoidably delayed until our next issue. The importance of this matter is such that we regret leaving the communication over, but we shall present it on Monday. In the meantime we hope our citizens generally will reflect over the subject as it was presented yesterday in these columns.

The Public Schools.—The public schools of this city will begin the new term on Monday next. We learn from Prof. Fowler that a full corps of teachers has been employed, and it is very desirable that the attendance on the first day should be full, that the classes may be properly formed. Parents will make a note of this.

The Continental.—We learn that the propeller Continental, made famous by the "Mercer girls" scheme, and now owned by the California, Oregon and Mexico Steamship line, is to take the place of the Oregonian soon, in order that some other alterations to the machinery of the latter may be made.

Good Music.—The rapid advancement to a proficient degree, which is now being made by the Mechanic's Brass Band, is the remark of every one. Good music is the soul of any city, and this being the case Portland has an excellent soul.

The Sheriff's Office.—Sheriff Stitzel's office is now fully opened at the new Court House.

To Sail.—The steamship Fidelity, Capt. Erskine, leaves for Victoria at 2 o'clock P. M. to-day.

There will be auction sales at Kilbourn's to-day. See [illegible].

FROM MONTANA.

The Montana Post of July 14th contains the following items:

IMMIGRATION.

The immigration overland from the Atlantic States has begun to make its appearance. Several trains came into town during the week. Those who have arrived inform us that there are thousands more on the way, and that in the course of three or four weeks there will be more "tender feet" here than ever came in one batch before. We say, let 'em come. There is no country in the world that offers stronger inducements to immigration than Montana. Our valleys are broad and fertile, our mines rich and extensive, our quartz veins wide and deep; and we say again, let 'em come. They will find employment and remuneration therefor accordingly.

ROAD FROM WALLA WALLA TO BLACKFOOT.

Mr. Bacon, the pioneer expressman from Walla Walla to Helena and Blackfoot City, arrived in town on Tuesday last, making the trip from Lewiston, Idaho, to this place in eight and a half traveling days. From him we learn that the fifty thousand dollars, which were appropriated by Congress some time ago, to construct a wagon road from Idaho Territory to Montana, is now being applied to open a thoroughfare between this city and Lewiston in the former Territory. A Mr. Bird, of Mount Pleasant, Iowa, has charge of the work, and will do all toward completing it that can be done with so small an amount of funds.

THE CROPS.

Crops in all parts of the Territory, except where injured by the grasshoppers, are reported to be very promising. The upper valley of the West Gallatin has thus far escaped the pest; and the wheat is heading out. The crop will be a large one.

PROSPECTIVE TROUBLE WITH THE INDIANS.

It is reported that the Indians left Laramie, after their failure to make a treaty, with a determination of making an attack on the emigrant trains, now en route for this city by the Powder river route. We may expect to hear of [illegible] in that direction, as a large number of wagons are still beyond the Yellowstone. One of the causes of their refusal to treat was that the commissioners would not stipulate to abandon this road.

A CHAPTER OF ACCIDENTS.

Accidents upon the road have been quite frequent during the past week. On the 7th inst., as Holladay's coach was descending the Prickly Pear Divide, on its way to Virginia, one of the wheels struck a rock upon the side of the road, while the vehicle was going at a rapid rate, thus throwing off the driver, John Warner. John Washburn, who was sitting beside him, was able to retain his seat until the bottom of the hill was reached, when the striking upon another rock sent him flying. This left six horses before the coach, going it alone, and six passengers inside, at their mercy. Disastrous consequences were prevented by some parties upon Oliver's coach, (which was now reached by the runaway team,) who jumped off and stopped the free easy career of the jolly coach and six. We are glad to learn that neither of the parties thrown off were injured to any extent. We have heard several rumors of other turn-overs upon the Holladay line, and a ridiculous picture has been drawn for us of three or four passengers being plunged into Prickly Pear creek, for a customary cool off, on the 5th.

[illegible] ITEMS.

We condense from the Post:

On the 9th, B. F. Stafford was severely injured at Helena, by the kick of a horse.

The Helena District Court for July had commenced its sitting, with nearly a hundred cases on the docket.

The Helena Republican received its press and material on the 10th, and would soon be issued.

Guiroits & Co. have drawn off their line of stages between Virginia and Helena.

The Post is now printed with brevier and nonpareil type, on a Campbell's patent cylinder power press.

Julia Dean Hayne had arrived at Virginia. She is to open at the People's theatre, supported by Belle Douglas and H. S. Mortimer.

Over a dozen quartz discoveries were recorded at Virginia between Monday 9th and Saturday 14th.

The mines on Alder gulch are paying much better than formerly.

The editor of the Post has been shown some rich and [illegible] from the lode at Summit.

Grant County Contested Election.

Howard, plaintiff, vs. Berry, defendant; contested election for Sheriff of Grant County.

TESTIMONY AND PROOF

1st. The poll-books returned from the precincts of Olive, John Day, Elk and Union—precincts, not counted by canvassers, were produced and proven by the certificate of M. Goodwin, Clerk; and by the sworn statement of A. H. Mosshead, former Deputy Clerk.

2d. The poll-book of Olive precinct showed that Berry had received 91 votes, and Howard 160 votes for Sheriff—book properly certified. Morehead testified that the poll-book was not returned properly sealed; that it was [illegible] in a loose wrapper of paper, fastened by a twine string, and was [illegible] in the count for that [illegible]; that it was delivered to the Clerk by one Coffin, express[illegible] Mr. R. W. [illegible] testified that he was one of the Judges of election in that precinct, that the judges had no envelope or other means of sealing up and enclosing the poll-book; that they enclosed it as stated by Morehead, [illegible] an oath to Mr. Coffin, the messenger, to convey it safely to the Clerk; and that there was no mail or other means of conveyance.

3d.—The poll-book of John Day precinct showed that Berry had there received 43 votes, and Howard 91 votes for Sheriff. The book was headed, among other officers, as follows:

[illegible]

M. P. BERRY. T. HOWARD.

And at the bottom of the whole list of votes was a footing-up of the votes cast, in figures, thus:

[illegible] 43. [illegible] 91.

And immediately beneath, and on the same sheet with the figures, was this certificate:

"At an election held at the house of Frank Butler, in the precinct of John Day, in the county of Grant, State of Oregon, on the 4th day of June, 1866, the following named persons received the number of votes annexed to their respective names, for the following offices, to-wit:
Certified by us: D. N. Lace, J. H. Ford, W. D. Brooks.
Attest: H. H. Davis, J. B. Hinterman, Clerks.

4th. The poll-book of Elk precinct showed for Sheriff:

M. P. BERRY. T. HOWARD.
63 102

Across the page, beneath the footing-up, was this certificate:

"We the undersigned, Judges and Clerks of the election of Elk Precinct, Grant county, State of Oregon, on June 4th, 1866, do certify that this is a correct and true copy of the votes cast."
Wm. Woolery, WM. P. Hooper, John N. Reid.
M. B. Hine, S. Drury, [illegible] of the Election.

5th. The poll-books of Union precinct, showed that Berry had 42 votes and Howard had 56 votes for Sheriff. The poll-book was footed up as in the case of Elk precinct, and immediately below the figures was the certificate:

"This is to certify that this is a true and correct return of the election held at the house of W. B. Davis, in Union precinct, June 4th, 1866.
W. Courtney, H. C. Dodge, M. [illegible] Zook, Judges.
M. M. B. [illegible]way, John S. Sanburn, Clerks.

6th. The poll-book of Rock Creek precinct was properly certified and returned; but contestant claims that the election was held at Camp Watson, while the order of the court, [illegible] that precinct, [illegible] ed the "Rock Creek H[illegible]" as the place of voting. Morehead testified that Camp Watson was some four miles from the place known as "Rock Creek House."

7th. The poll-book of Granite precinct was not produced.

Contestant claims that the votes given in Granite, Olive, Elk, Union and John Day precincts were wrongly rejected by the canvassers; and that the votes given in Rock Creek precinct were illegally given by soldiers, who had no right to vote for county officers, and were not given at a proper place for voting, and claims that even if all the precincts were counted he would have a majority of 158 votes, and if Rock Creek precinct were rejected he would have a majority of 242 votes. Defendant denies that that the mentioned precincts were improperly rejected; avers that the poll-books pretending to come from these precincts were not such, and so certified, as would allow the canvassers to receive and count them; avers that in the precincts, properly subjects for canvass, he, defendant, has a majority; that contestant only received 177 legal votes, and, and he received 235 legal votes for Sheriff; avers that sundry voted cast for Howard in Canyon City, John Day, Union and Vincent precincts were [illegible], the voters being either non-residents or foreigners; and denies the irregularity alleged in Rock Creek [illegible]; defendant avers that no certificate has been issued to him; that he holds the office of Sheriff by virtue of an appointment by the Governor of Oregon, and should hold the same until a successor is elected and qualified. Contestant replied to this answer and the case was submitted.

FINDINGS.

No question being made as to the legality of the votes cast in the precincts of Granite, Elk, John Day and Union, it is presumed, then, that every person voting there had full right so to do;—nor is it questioned that proper poll-books had been furnished those precincts, and that the same books were returned to the Clerk. The point claimed by the defendant is that the poll-books were not certified to as required by law make them legal evidence, except as to Olive precinct, and the question there is that the poll-book was not properly sealed up.

Though I hesitate in fully concurring with the decision of the Supreme Court of Oregon Territory, and have doubts as to the correctness of the broad rule of the law, as laid down by that Court in the case of Day vs. Kent, Vol. 1, Ogn. Rep. p. 129, I cannot but be bound by that decision until some case shall occur so marked as would impel me to decide adversely to their ruling. In that case there had been no poll-book sent to One Creek precinct, and certain Judges and Clerks returned merely a statement that a certain number of votes were cast for certain candidates, without showing the list of voters, or the number of them, or for whom they voted, or that there were any voters properly in that precinct.

The Court in that case holds that even if no return had been made, yet in a contest for an office, before a court, the contestant could prove by parol or other proof that certain votes had been cast for him and sustain his right to the office, "for his rights would not depend on the acts or omissions of judges and omissions of judges and clerks, but upon the votes of the people," and the Court propose this inquiry: "Is Day (the contestant) worse off with an imperfect return than he would be with no return at all?"

Apply this rule to the case in hand: Both parties admit the votes to be legal; that the voters had a full right to vote, and the voting had been done regularly, without fraud; but that omissions of judges and clerks vitiated the whole election. I need not make further remark on this point than to make the clear statement. The rule laid down in Day vs. Kent is, that statutes prescribing the [illegible] in which a public officer should perform an act are generally regarded as a directory, and admitting the officer to have power, his disregard for such statutes in doing the act, will not destroy the rights of an innocent person. p. 128-45. The officers here had power; they attempted in one instance, at least, to do everything required, and [illegible] alone prevented them. No fraud is alleged, no withholding of books or lists, merely an imperfect act in certifying to poll books. Surely on this point the case is very far within the rule in Day vs Kent.

Again, on page 130, the Court says: "Citizens, when they vote, acquire a right to have their votes regarded, and the person to whom they are given acquires a right to have them estimated in his favor, and it would be unjust, not to say absurd, to hold that all these rights are destroyed by the mistakes of all petty officers, who have to deal with the evidence of election." "Courts are not bound by the acts or decisions of canvassing officers, but are to hear parol or other competent evidence, and then give the office to him that appears to have a majority of legal votes for it."

In this case, the want of an envelope affects Olive precinct. In the others, the certificates are more or less informal or defective.

No one can mistake as to who the voters were or as to how they voted. The footings of the columns as to each office are fully made up and the number of votes cast for each candidate are set opposite, or rather under his name, and then the judges and clerks certify that the book is correct. If the Supreme Court could decide the case of Day vs. Kent upon the evidence there, I cannot hesitate here when the proofs are so abundant.

As no evidence was offered as to the legality or illegality of any particular voter or vote, and no evidence offered on the subject of voting done by soldiers, I shall not enter at all upon those questions, or upon any alleged irregularity in Rock Creek precinct, since upon the other points I am constrained to decide that contestant having received 765 votes, and defendant having received 548 votes for the office of Sheriff of Grant county, Howard has a right to the office, and that a certificate shall issue to him.
J. G. WILSON, Judge.

The Wreck of the Teeth.—Is sure to follow the use of the many worthless preparations for the teeth now in the market. Remember that those pretended Dentists who cry down Sozodont all have some worthless article of their own which they will try and induce you to use. Do not be deceived; use nothing but Sozodont, a pure and infallible preservative of the dental substance.

The Combination of Ingredients used in making "Brown's Bronchial Troches" is such as to give the best possible effect with safety. The Troches are used always with good success, and are widely known as the best remedy for Coughs, Colds, Throat Diseases, and Asthmatic troubles.

THE HUMAN FACE.—What vast expression is there in the human face. Julius Cæsar, Napoleon, Washington, Jackson, Grant and other great generals possessed mobility of features both on and off the field of battle to a wonderful degree. To get the features in repose and beauty by Photography you must go to ELLSWORTH & CARDWELL'S GALLERY, 89 First street.

THE TEETH! THE TEETH!
DR. J. R. CARDWELL,

Having lately returned from San Francisco, would inform his friends and the public generally that he is now prepared to meet the demands for DENTAL WORK. Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The stomach is the fountain-head of scores of diseases which infest the human system. Indigestion, bad enough per se, generates diarrhœa, dysentary, faintness, vertigo, palpitation of the heart, general debility, &c. Get rid of it, then, at once by going through a course of
DR. HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS,
A palatable and refreshing preparation, which as surely relieves all complaints of the stomach and its dependencies, as the sunshine melts the snow. A course of the medicine may not perhaps be necessary. One bottle frequently accomplished a complete cure. Sold by druggists and dealers everywhere.

The reason why so many die with Consumption is because they neglect to use the proper remedy in season. When the system is first attacked with a cough, oppression of the chest, or seated pains in the breast, ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will cause the phlegm to raise, heals the irritated parts and restores the system to health. S. T.—1860.—X.

Persons of sedentary habits troubled with weakness, lassitude, palpitation of the heart, lack of appetite, distress after eating, torpid liver, constipation, &c., deserve to suffer if they will not try the celebrated

PLANTATION BITTERS,

Which are now recommended by the highest medical authorities, and warranted to produce an immediate beneficial effect. They are exceedingly agreeable, perfectly pure, and must supercede all other tonics where a healthy, gentle stimulant is required.

They purify, strengthen and invigorate.
They create a healthy appetite.
They are an antidote to change of water and diet.
They overcome effects of dissipation and late hours.
They strengthen the system and enliven the mind.
They prevent miasmatic and intermittent fevers.
They purify the breath and acidity of the stomach.
They cure Dyspepsia and Constipation.
They cure Diarrhea and Cholera Morbus.
They cure Liver Complaint and Nervous Headache.

They make the weak strong, the languid brilliant, and are exhausted nature's great restorer. They are composed of the celebrated Calisaya bark, wintergreen, sassafras, roots and herbs, all preserved in perfectly pure St. Croix rum. For particulars, see circulars and testimonials around each bottle.

Beware of impostors. Examine every bottle. See that it has our private U. S. Stamp unmutilated over the cork, with plantation scene, and our signature on a fine steel plate side label. See that our bottle is not refilled with spurious and deleterious stuff. Any person pretending to sell Plantation Bitters by the gallon or in Bulk, is an impostor. Any person imitating this bottle, or selling any other material therein, whether called Plantation Bitters or not, is a criminal under the U. S. Law, and will be so prosecuted by us. We already have our eye on several parties re-filling our bottles, &c., who will succeed in getting themselves into close quarters. The demand for Drake's Plantation Bitters from ladies, clergymen, merchants, &c., is incredible. The simple trial of a bottle is the evidence we present of their worth and superiority. They are sold by all respectable druggists, grocers, physicians, hotels, saloons, steamboats and country stores.

G. VENARD,
CHARTRES COFFEE!
Manufactory Established in June, 1851.
STEAM POWER, NOS. 625 AND 627 FRONT ST.

HAS CONSTANTLY ON HAND GROUND AND ROASTED COFFEE, GREEN COFFEE of the best qualities. CREAM OF TARTAR and SPICES of all sorts.
The undersigned, who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless, buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice.
BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.

Good Night.

Good night, my love, the tear-drop starts,
But I must leave thee now;
The light of stars is fading fast
Upon night's jewelled brow;
The moon has touched the distant hill,
The East's aglow with light,
I fold thee to my heart again—
Good night, my love, good night.

Good night, my love, may angels watch
Above thy peaceful sleep,
And happy dreams within thy soul
Their sweetest vigils keep.
And when the day shall come again,
To wake thee with its light,
Then think of me, then think of me,
My love, thy love, good night.

Good night, my love, I turn again
To mingle in the throng,
But in my inmost heart of hearts,
I'll wear thee true and long;
And wh[illegible] o'er stern fate shall lead,
My love shall know no blight
I'll think of thee, will cherish thee;
My love, my love, good night.

A Good Thing.—The following translation from the Unsere Zeit, (German,) of May 30th, is about the best take-off on the assuredly ridiculous twaddle sent from Fortress Monroe regarding Jeff. Davis, that we have seen:

Official bulletins regarding the health of the distinguished prisoner, Jefferson Davis, which were recently transmitted to His Majesty, Monsieur Veto, as per order:

Fortress Monroe, May 23.

First Bulletin, 9 A. M.—His Excellency, ex-President Jefferson Davis, has just been pleased to awake and arise from his couch. Although the distinguished captive had an unbroken rest for twelve hours, he yawned twice within five minutes after awaking, which causes me much uneasiness.

Second Bulletin, 10 A. M.—With much pleasure I have the honor to send you the cheering intelligence that the distinguished prisoner sneezed at five minutes and twenty-three seconds of ten. This important occurrence justifies the best hopes.

Third Bulletin, 10½ A. M.—I regret to inform you that my anticipations were too hasty. When we observed the prisoner at breakfast I noticed that he could dispose of only one beefsteak, one spring chicken, one dish of asparagus, and one plateful of green peas.

Fourth Bulletin, 12 M.—Great excitement prevails in all parts of the Fort. Notwithstanding the close attention which I constantly bestow upon the illustrious prisoner, I could not prevent his injuring himself in the upper joint of his left finger, while fastening his breastpin. The loss of blood was terrible. According to my superficial calculation he must have lost five and a half drops.

Fifth Bulletin, 4 P. M.—The illustrious prisoner, after having his wound dressed, had a good rest of three hours. I do not think that it will superinduce death. To be prepared for the worst, I should recommend that twelve Assistant Surgeons be sent down.

Sixth Bulletin, 5 P. M.—The distinguished prisoner's condition causes me more and more anxiety. A half an hour ago he asked me to read the Intelligencer, which contained your last speech and that of your Secretary of the Treasury. That his eyesight might not suffer I prepared to read the speeches to him. I had scarcely finished when the illustrious prisoner (for the first time since long,) spat out. In my opinion, a very bad sign. I consider it absolutely necessary that the Surgeon General investigate the spittle, for which reason I shall transmit it, hermetically sealed, per next steamer.

Seventh Bulletin.—The illustrious prisoner has just been pleased to retire with his illustrious spouse to his bed-room, and as delicacy prevents me from following him there, I am compelled to break off my reports here for the present.

GEORGE E. COPPERHEAD,
Surgeon U. S. A.

Julian of Indiana on Davis.—In a late address at Washington, George W. Julian, member of Congress from Indiana, spoke very freely of Jeff. Davis. The Chronicle says:

He alluded with cutting sarcasm to the account of Jeff. Davis' Imprisonment just published by Dr. Craven, remarking that if there was a meaner man on earth than Jeff. Davis, that man was Craven. There might be men South, and some Copperheads North, whose sympathies would be stirred by reading the book, but he (the speaker) was not able to see that the "stern statesman" had suffered so much, he remembered that atrocities perpetrated by him upon our prisoners, his plot to disseminate yellow fever and to lay waste Northern cities, and he understood that it was likely to be proved that he was connected with the plot to assassinate our martyr President. Had Davis been chained to a rock like Prometheus, with vultures to gnaw his vitals, he would have no cause for complaint. He asked for no such extreme punishment as that. He had no desire for vengeance, but was opposed to mercy that could only be granted by trampling justice under foot.

New Land District in Oregon.—A late eastern dispatch says:

The House has passed a Senate bill to authorize the President of the United States to establish an additional land district in the State of Oregon and to fix its boundaries, which district shall be named after the place at which the office shall first be established; and the President is from time to time, as circumstances may require, to adjust the boundaries of the various land districts in the State, and to change the location of the land office. A register and receiver are provided for, to reside at the site of the office, to receive the same fees and perform like services as other land offices in that State.

Homesteads in New Mexico and Arizona.—Both Houses of Congress have passed the bill extending the benefits of the pre-emption and homestead laws to citizens of the United States residing in towns or villages of New Mexico and Arizona, and who may be cultivating lands of the United States and are bona fide owners of the improvements thereon, even though they are not residing and have not resided on the lands.

Abuses of the Franking Privilege.—The Postmaster General has sent a communication to Congress calling attention to the abuses of the franking privilege in the use of franks of members by claim agents, patent agents, etc. The Postmaster General says this has become a serious evil, lessening considerably the postal revenues, and bringing reproach upon the department.

The President has so far taken A. J. Rogers, Copperhead Congressman from New Jersey into his confidence, that he appoints to office on his recommendation.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

(Weekly Review.)

[illegible], Aug. 3, 1866.

The most attractive feature of [illegible] for the period [illegible] in review is the [illegible] success of the laying of the Atlantic [illegible]. This great enterprise has been [illegible] and now the world stops for a [illegible] the achievement. The dream is one such as the world was never before called upon to conceive, and that [illegible] having its effect. With the completion of this grand enterprise came the intelligence of the close of the war in Europe, and once more [illegible] great revolution in financial affairs [illegible] to have been averted. The effects of a crisis which threatened to shake the business world to its very [illegible] will now soon be over, and the greatest efforts of business men, in their [illegible] pursuits, may be practically [illegible].

We find matters [illegible] gradually and financially but little different to-day from that [illegible] last week. [illegible] notes are moderately advancing, and may be quoted at [illegible] rates of exchange. The money market continues tight, under [illegible] calls at full rates of interest, on the best mercantile paper or good collaterals.

Imports of merchandise are greatly in [illegible] of exports of produce, but it is noticed that there is more demand than usual for the lower grades of flour and considerable [illegible] of being held for advances, which are anticipated.

The [illegible] paragraph relating to the vast quantities of salmon [illegible] running in the Columbia river, and its tributaries, we clip from the New York Journal of Commerce, credited to the Albion. It will be new to most of our [illegible], and will undoubtedly astonish the oldest inhabitant:

"The [illegible] announce the appearance of the first fish, and all [illegible] rush to [illegible] the work of catching and curing. This may be the best place in which to mention, incidentally, that the salmon are indispensable to the existence of the Inland tribes of Indians. Nature supplies the tribes with fish with a lavish profusion, incredible to any who have not seen the salmon run in these wondrous rivers. Every stream becomes filled with fish, that to throw a stone into the water without hitting one is almost next to an impossibility. When I say that the Commissioner and myself (I need not mention names) found it extremely difficult to ride through a ford, in consequence of the abundance of the salmon thronging upward and onward to spawn, some idea may be formed of the incredible numbers that annually visit the streams of the Northwest."

That statement, we are forced to admit, is terribly overdrawn. The salmon fisheries of the Columbia are extensive, but not so extraordinary as the reader would infer by reading the article from which we extract. [illegible] is not garnered exclusively by the savages [illegible] day, but the business has this season furnished employment to many white persons, and there is room for additional enterprises in that direction. There are various places along the Columbia river, from Chinook Point to the Cascades, where capital may be invested in the salmon trade with profit, and we look forward to the time, at no distant day, when this will become one of the chief features of business in our country. The catch of this season is selling in the market at from $6 to $6 50 ⅌ half barrel.

We observe with pleasure that the press of California have spoken in favor of the wants of commerce between that State, Oregon and Washington Territory, which for a long time has been overlooked. This trade is now one of very important interest. It has been rapidly growing, with the development of the country, until it has become one of the greatest elements of the commercial prosperity of the entire coast, but the measures of the general government in aid of navigation have not kept pace with its activity, by any means. There is immediate necessity for prompt work in this respect, and in addition to the suggestions advanced by us last week in favor of the placement of buoys at the mouth of the Columbia river, we quote the following from the San Francisco Bulletin:

"There is necessity for the immediate erection of three light houses between the Golden Gate and the Columbia river. A light of the first order ought to be established on Point Reyes, together with a steam-whistle, as is the case at many places on the coast of England. The latter, on account of its power, would be infinitely better than a bell, and of material aid to the mariner in finding his way into harbor during the heavy fogs that are so prevalent on the coast at certain seasons. First class lights are also required at Capes Mendocino and Blanco, near which the Northerner struck in 1860. This was recommended by George Davidson, of the United States Coast Survey, several years ago. In order to make quick passages it is desirable for steamers to run within a few miles of land, and as the Pacific coast does not abound in good harbors, in which vessels can shelter at the approach of a storm, the necessity for a series of light-houses is increased. The commerce of this portion of the Pacific has claims upon the bounty of Government which cannot and will not be ignored, and we trust our delegation in Congress will not fail to press the subject upon the attention of that body immediately."

Congress having adjourned it is worthy that our people take definite action in the meantime, to secure the recognition of our claims at an early day on the next [illegible] ling of our national councils.

Wholesale and Jobbing Prices.

Portland, August 3, 1866.

The markets are superabundantly supplied, and business is active, with prices rather steady. With reference to trade, we are permitted to extract from the Jobbing Circular of Messrs. McCraken, Merrill & Co., July 28th:

"Trade, during the period under review, has been fair. A few merchants from Montana have made liberal purchases and as the navigation to Lewiston is about to close, for the season, orders from that quarter have come in freely; among which Flour has been a prominent item, although mostly for country brands. Idaho is also making a movement toward supplying her Fall and Winter Trade."

Messrs. Buckle & Co., have disposed of their stock of brooms to R. G. Smeath, and the market for that article is firmer, at quotations advanced 50 cents ⅌ doz."

The demand for coffee is increasing, and the stock of Java being somewhat light, an advance of 1c. ⅌ lb. is noted. Sugars are quiet, a slight decline in the better qualities of Island is made in the market. No further changes of importance are remarked. We quote:

Domestic Produce Market.

Portland, August 3, 1866.

We hear of no offers of wheat, to any great extent. The subjoined quotations are advised, but the disposition to purchase at those figures is limited. Oats are being supplied to a certain extent from California. By the date of July 25th, we quote the following regarding the markets of San Francisco from the California Farmer:

"Our grain and produce markets promise much this season. Later advices are of a favorable nature and lead us to believe that the future is full of promise. There is scarcely doubt that we shall have a profitable market in the East, in addition to our foreign demand. There is nothing to give us [illegible] of alarm, and were our supply ten-fold, markets would offer for it. A demand for wheat has actually begun, several charters have been effected and a number of ships are loading for Liverpool, while others for China and Australia. Agents for [illegible] or speculators are in the country making purchases and that already secured is going forward as rapidly as possible, and going direct on ship-board unless it be an occasional lot thrown on the market, and it is at a low price to create an alarm in the minds of farmers and cause them to sell. It is certain the time has passed for a few speculators to control and dictate. Their tricks are known, and their movements watched; the admitted fact that our crops are the largest ever produced in California gives no alarm. Our markets have [illegible] propositions. The quality of our grain, wherever known, makes it a ready market at the highest price. California is no longer in her infancy. The products of her broad acres have made her known in all parts of the globe."

The Montana Post thus speaks with reference to the crops of that region:

"Whether we consider the staff of life to be wheat or flour, we have good reason to be satisfied. The supply in the Territory will be very large, by next fall—larger even than at present. A careful estimate of our crops enables us to [illegible] that at least 150,000 sacks of flour will be produced in the Territory, should the season be an average one. There is upwards of 5,000 acres of wheat now growing in the Gallatin valley alone, and more than 1,000 about Mill Creek neighborhood; while the Boulder, Deer Lodge, Bitter Root, and numerous other valleys are equally well [illegible] on the wheat question. There will be 30,000 sacks of flour delivered in this town during next month, and 40,000 of Church flour from Utah, will be hauled into Montana, we are told, during the summer. The [illegible] of emigration now covering every road to our Territory, is sure to bring with it an ample supply of cattle, and on the score of provisions, we may rest content. Vegetables will also be produced in sufficient quantities for all our needs."

The Willamette river is getting very low for trade, but still there is considerable produce daily arriving, principally for storage. We quote prices to-day as follows:

Cotton Goods and Woolen Market.

Portland, August 3, 1866.

Sheetings are still drooping, but other qualities of cotton goods are as indicated by the market to-day. Trade for the week is reported active, and sales have been large. It may be remarked that imported goods are now being sold below cost, nevertheless activity prevails in that line.

The market for woolen fabrics produced in Oregon, which are admitted to be of the finest grades, is good. A new article produced at the Willamette Factory, called the Montana blanket, very heavy and full, is in request.

The market for wool is without material alteration, and but little is offering. Our latest dates from the East look to the future with favorable indications:

OREGON WOOLEN GOODS.—Blankets, Oregon gray, quality No. 2, $7 00; do. white, No. 1, $9 00; do. Weekly Retail Family Market.

Portland, August 3, 1866.

The market remains about as previously quoted. Fresh eggs are still scarce, and are quoted a few cents higher. Choice butter is in active demand; the prices ruling to-day are: for ordinary, 35c; prime, 37½c; choice roll, 45c.

Clear Lake, California, and Eastern cheese is offered at 25c., and is recommended as being of a good quality, a single cheese weighing from 50 to 60 lbs. The jobbing rates are 21c. for this article.

Fruit is not very abundant, but the incoming steamer will replenish the stock of varieties from California. Pears rule at 5c. ⅌ lb; being more plentiful. A few cherries of late varieties are to be seen, which are offered at prices varying from 25c. to 35c. ⅌ lb. Some kinds of vegetables are in demand. We quote:

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgence, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, wasted and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies [illegible] they are cared for and cured before it be too late. [illegible] them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of these charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combated by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by any of the San Francisco quacks.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding him to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME by addressing a letter to Doctor Gibbon, stating the case, length of time the disease has existed, and have medicine promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in a registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

I am still obliged to take Legal Tender Notes at Par, and have been since Dec. 17, 1862, for the rent of my Family Brick Store, corner of Main and Front streets, I feel compelled to say, for the benefit of the public, that

JACOB MAYER

Leased the building of me Feb. 17, 1862, for a term of years, at which time there was no such currency in vogue, and it was understood the payments were Cash. Since the date above stated, I have received the depreciated currency regularly for the rent of the being less than ten fifths of the real value said Mayer was to pay. He has sublet the building at very advanced rates, and even were he now to comply with his contract, and pay in Coin, would be getting the best bargain in the city. I make this [illegible] to show the public what kind of a man he must be to take such an advantage of the times to convert another dollar to himself by LEGAL SWINDLING. The public can readily see how much it costs to have such tenants in such costly buildings as the one referred to above.

Portland, July 6, 1866. G. W. VAUGHN.

Sheriff's Sale.

BY VIRTUE of an execution and foreclosure of mortgage to me directed, issued out of the Circuit Court for Multnomah County, wherein William Meek is plaintiff and Dorance D. Duncan and J. P. Miller are defendants, commanding me to make sale of the property as described in the decree and foreclosure, I have this day levied on the following described real estate, to-wit: The fractional east half of the south-west quarter of Section 19, Township 1, South, Range 2 east; and the south-east quarter of the north-west quarter of Section 19, same Township and Range; and the fractional south-east quarter of Section 19, same Township and Range; also the fractional North half of the east quarter of Section 30, same Township and Range; also a small fraction on the East side of the West half of the south-east quarter of the north-west quarter of Section 19, same Township and Range, being same lands known and designated in notification certificate in the office of the Surveyor General of the Public Lands in Oregon, [illegible] by Henry Miller and his wife as their Land Claim under the laws of Congress; most of said lands lying and being in Multnomah county, State of Oregon; together with the privileges and appurtenances thereunto belonging; and will proceed to sell the same at Public Auction, in front of the new Court House door, in Multnomah county, State of Oregon, on Tuesday, the 21st day of August, A. D. 1866, at the hour of 10 o'clock A. M., or so much thereof as will be necessary to satisfy the plaintiff's demand; amounting to ($2,350 40-100), two thousand, three hundred and fifty 40-100 dollars, and interest thereon from the 11th day of June, A. D. 1866, together with costs, &c.

JACOB STITZEL,
Sheriff of Multnomah County.
Portland, July 23, 1866. tf

"Back in the States."

CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN.

July 1st, 1866.

There may be nothing of interest worthy of publication that your correspondent has seen or done for eight months past, but during that time he has been traveling through the Eastern States after an absence of more than fifteen years, enjoying the hospitalities of old friends, and observing the progress of events during that time. It is not easy for a resident of the Pacific coast to reconcile himself to the East, and I find in my own case what many have said before, that life in Oregon or California unfits a person for returning here. The every day civilization of the Atlantic coast, lacks something to one who has mingled with the enterprise and partaken of the variety found 'at home.'' Communities here are generally made up of people born and reared in one vicinity, while with you, society is composed of contributions from every State domestic and foreign, and combines the enterprise and intelligence of all.

NEW YORK CITY.

We cannot compass in any sense the wonders and beauties of the great metropolis, which as the years pass by create along the great business thoroughfares, palaces of trade that the world can not excel, in place of the homely but substantial structures I knew of old, and whose up town residence have grown in magnificence as shoddy, petroleum stock-jobbing and regular trade have built up fortunes. The lovers of rural scenes, too, can go for a sixpence from the lower city, and leaving its rumble and dust behind, ride in a street car five miles, still within the city, to Central Park, where millions have been expended to charm the senses and give the tired denizen of town a chance to ruralize whenever they can spare the time. There are graveled walks for the people and magnificent drives for the wealthy, and I cannot conceive anything that would more astonish one unused to such scenes than to place him some lovely June twilight on the ramble of the Park and let him see the morning throng of holiday pedestrians and the passing turn-outs of fashionable equipage belonging to the upper ten. All New York is regulated by a most efficient police, and the gay uniformed officials, peculiar to the Park, patrol each walk and drive, maintaining perfect order and decorum, watching all suspicious characters to prevent theft, and arresting the mad career of any John who forgets the rule that proscribes a faster gate than seven miles an hour. Change the scene to January and you have crowds hurrying to the skating ponds. The careful city provides by flooding the hollows with Croton water, when male and female, old and young, native and foreign, mingle and whirl on the well kept ice, for every midnight sees the surface scraped off clean and sometimes flooded anew, to be in readiness for the pleasure seekers of to-morrow.

New York is indeed a wonderful place, now rivaling the Capitol of Europe, not only in commercial importance, but in its magnificence and extravagance. I spent much time there (at home) in the society of old friends, visited Wall street where Babel seems to have broken loose when the stock and gold operators hold their "open board" just out of it in Bond street, and made my daily tramp up and down Broadway. It was always possible to find a few Oregonians at Tilton's, where they most do congregate, and during the winter the representation grew in extent, until one could feel quite at home in the society of Web-feet, mostly, Portlanders. Few of them who represented mining interests, met with much success in the sale of them. Once in a while a mine would find purchasers, but there is no excitement or speculation in favor of gold and silver mines. Eastern capital has determined to see some results before making further investments.

OREGON AND IDAHO MINES.

There are innumerable mines offered for sale from Arizona, New Mexico, Mexico, California, Montana, Nevada and Colorado, as well as from Idaho and Oregon. It is a melancholy fact that all men who desire to sell mines are not particular as to what they sell, so long as they can make a sale; and more unfortunate still, such a person can spin as long a yarn in favor of his particular property, as the most honest man living can of an "A No. 1" property. As a consequence, so much swindling is perpetrated that it works against the real interests of the mining region, which are hindered and retarded in development by every unfortunate investment.

Between mining and petroleum operations, those who have money have learned that 'prospectuses are suspicious articles; and I scarce have a friend in New York, (and I know many wealthy men there,) who has not been victimized by some "permanent investment." Hereafter, owners of mines must calculate to develope them until satisfactory proof is obtained of their reliable value, and then they may enlist capital to assist in the process of working. The time is past, as a rule, when undeveloped mines will sell for enormous prices, as some have been sold, and it is unreasonable to expect it. Offer a mine to the consideration of capitalists, and they wonder if it is a good thing why the owners are not willing to retain it, when capital is willing to develop and work it for a fair proportion of profit.

People have little idea of the immense scope of mineral country we have in the United States, and to discover it one only needs to come to the East and watch the mines offered for sale. He will soon learn that, however good his interests may be, the capitalists of New York are daily besieged to take hold on any terms they may choose, and develop mines claiming to be just as good. Much New York and other eastern capital has been invested in Owyhee and South Boise—some profitably and much unprofitably. When the the yield of bullion from those districts commences to respond to these investments and dividends are proclaimed on money placed there, then, and not before, some speculative tendency may develop; but not even then anything resembling the excitement peculiar to the past history of Nevada, Washoe, Humboldt and Reese river. I speak at some length for the benefit of our northern mining regions, and thinking a little sound sense may as well pervade mining matters as others. Miners err in holding undeveloped lodes at too high a figure, and they complain terribly that money don't come and outbid their expectations, while the general fact is that those who have been sharp enough to make money are generally as able to keep it for proper investment. A man going a stranger to New York to sell a mine must act through some broker, who, for a consideration, will try to sell it. Then the scheming commences. The broker divides the thing around in some way to secure the needed help—perhaps sells at nominally an enormous figure, by gulling some men out of money to pay for the mine, and something over for his trouble, while he and his friends actually retain the majority of the stock, and the original owner gets a pitiful sum and some stock. He goes back a wiser man and not much richer, while some villainous operator has fattened by using him as a bait. But all that is becoming "played out." Petroleum overdid the thing, and it would astonish simple minded men to know that property without valid title was got for a song.

SINCE THE WAR

There is little to remind the stranger at the East of the late terrible conflict the nation has passed through. There is more than ever of bustle and wealth, increasing trade and population. Prices have increased with a vengeance, and the cost of building material has retarded improvement so that swarming cities cannot accommodate the increase of citizens. Such is the case at the East, and all through the North, but the Middle States show war's ravages, while the Southern States show war's destitution. Even they are working out the problem of their future, and finding free labor no bad thing compared with slave labor. My travels have extended to vicinities where hostile armies ravaged and guerrillas and bushwhackers murdered and robbed. I haven't stated my present whereabouts, but I am in the Border States, and in the business which I surpervise, quite a number of ex-rebel officers and soldiers are employed, and one ex-contraband colored individual who is the life of the neighborhood with his "nigger wit." Only last evening I heard two young fellows just out of the "Army of the Shenandoah" singing "Rally round the Flag" enthusiastically, and, for all I can see, they and the "boys in blue" also employed, harmonize well, frequently exchanging the epithets "rebel" and "Yankee" in good natured banter. The people, too, differing in political sentiments have one common sympathy, for the war has served them much alike. The Rebel armies robbed the Unionists and the Union armies cleaned out the Rebels. Almost all seem willing to cry quits, and are anxious to regain the independence and comfort they had "before the war," but it will take years to accomplish it. The bitter rebels are those who did the blustering, and who live and bluster still. A few day ago while riding along, I met a traveler of some considerable intelligence, mounted on an Arabian horse of considerable metal. He was a lawyer of some prominence and a fire-eater par excellence. He soon discoursed on National politics, and denounced very vehemently the course of the radicals, and declared with an oath that it would suit him to "stand and see the whole American continent sink into an unfathomed abyss." I had the presence of mind to ask him where he would stand, and recommended Mt. Hood as a cool place affording an excellent view. He had the good sense to take the joke and laugh at his own folly.

But as a general thing, one hears no wrangle in the Border States among the people. They have suffered all Stephens predicted for them in his celebrated speech in the Georgia Convention, and have no desire to talk—much less to fight. The Border States are not any too well blessed with schools, and ignorance and vice abound in some localities. One ex-confederate I found too lazy to make any use of, and discharged him. His ignorance was astonishing. Hearing a discussion about fast railroad trains, he ventured the guess that "Adams' Express is about the fastest road of all," and declared "If I'd knowed how the derned abolitionists was a going to act I'd been dogon'd afore I'd a surrendered." Providentially "Ed." didn't know.

The "colored individual," as he is fond of designating himself, is an uncommonly likely specimen of his class. Raised a slave in Eastern Virginia near Richmond, and having served his young master as a body servant in the "Army of Virginia" he brings to bear on his present situation, in addition to native contraband wit, the experience of life in the Confederate Capitol and army sojourning.

MISCELLANEOUS.

I met once, in traveling, an officer of the 5th Artillery, who stands guard one-fourth of the time in the presence of Jeff. Davis at Fortress Monroe. His account of Davis and Clay was interesting. The former was engaged principally in reading his Bible, and frequently indulged in discussions on national affairs. He represented life at the Fortress as very dull, nearly as much so for the guards as for the prisoners. He remarked that it seemed impossible that Clay could have been guilty of the crimes charged, as his experience and manner denoted a perfect gentleman, whose character partook of every element and trait of kindness and courtesy. The same view seems to have been taken by the President, as he has been released since that time.

At Washington I visited the Gardiners. Many will remember Col. Gardiner, once Surveyor General, and his sons Clinton and Charles, employed afterwards in the northern boundary survey. The old gentleman is still in the Treasury Department. Clinton is a man of family, and "Charley" is the same as of old. This reminds me that Walter Davis, well known for his Southern sympathies, met Senator Nesmith on going east last summer, and in answer to the question of the Senator, "What do you think of the rebellion now, Walter," the former freely owned up that the South was beaten. Said he, "I didn't think it could be done; that is so, and, I wouldn't have believed it if I hadn't seen the scarred veterans, the war-dogs that did it. I never believed the Yankees could turn out such men, but I have seen them, and am not ashamed to own whipped since then." "Why, Walter, who did you see?" "Charley Gardiner and Rankin!" The Portland folks will remember the latter as a nice young man at Vancouver, some years ago. It seems the two had been in some comfortable and safe military employ as Adjutants or Commissioners, or Quartermasters. The Government was once thrown into tremors by a Chinook telegram sent from the field by General Ingalls to his friend Nesmith, telling him in jargon to hurry out there if he wanted to see a big battle. Some Columbia river linguist finally came to the rescue with a translation, and the fears of treason were dissipated.

As you will perceive, I have not attempted to touch on current news. The telegraph tells you if Europe is at war, if the cholera spreads in New York, and what the world is at. I have merely sent you a few notes by the way.

Yours, &c., S. A. C.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE

SATURDAY MORNING, AUGUST 4, 1866

Something Constitutional at Last

The soothing influences of "my policy" are accomplishing charming results in Louisiana. Reconciliation on strictly "constitutional principles" has budded, blossomed and brought forth fruit in at least one place besides Memphis Louisiana, as one of the States which have been 'restored to all their functions in the Union,' and which, 'say what you will, are in perfect harmony with the National Government,' presents a spectacle which, without doubt, is exceedingly cheering to the heart of A Johnson. Nothing that has transpired for a year so completely vindicates "my policy" It is hardly a twelvemonth since the new plan for making treason odious went into operation; yet, see what splendid results already! A great triumph has been achieved! Louisiana is released from the tyranny of loyalty!

A State Convention, having for its object the amendment of the Constitution of Louisiana, was called to assemble at New Orleans on the 30th of July This body was the Convention of 1864, and was re-assembled by virtue of a resolution of its own, adopted at its first session But the "reconstructed," relying on the approbation and help of their "tribune," of the White House, resolved to evince their devotion to "my policy" by preventing the Convention from holding its session—even if the employment of violence should be necessary to accomplish that object The rebel General" Harry Hays, sheriff of New Orleans, who was pardoned by Johnson that he might take his office, and that treason might be made doubly odious thereby, headed this pacificatory movement, and organized a posse of rebels like himself, to lead the riot against the Convention Certainly Why shouldn't he? Isn't Harry Hays "loyal?" Don't he believe enthusiastically in "my policy"—fealty to which is the established and infallible test of loyalty? And as the Convention was odious to his brother rebels, to himself and to the man who signed the pardon he carries in his pocket, why shouldn't he and his fellow "loyalists," late of the Confederacy, kill a few of the members of the obnoxious Convention, arrest the remainder and fill the lockups with them, and then proceed to demonstrate their superiority over the blacks by killing a few dozen hateful, though unoffending, "niggers?" It was such a rare chance to illustrate Johnson's idea of "a war of the races!"

To establish beyond cavil the fact that all this was in strict conformity with "my policy," the Chairman of the Louisiana "Democratic" Committee visits the White House, has an interview with the author of the harmonious reconstruction scheme now in operation in New Orleans, and receiving assurances that everything was strictly regular, telegraphs to the "reconstructed" rebel Attorney General of Louisiana to arrest every man connected with the Convention—that "we have seen the President and he will do all that can be expected" Not willing to leave the matter under a shade of uncertainty, A Johnson telegraphs with his own hand to the Governor of Louisiana asking by what authority the Convention was convened and plainly signifying his displeasure at the proceeding This discloses a new feature in "my policy" Here at least we get something strictly constitutional. That "lawless and revolutionary body," the Congress of the United States, has been meddling with State rights so long that it now rejoices patriotic hearts to see his Excellency, A Johnson, defender of the faith, &c, asserting the sovereignty of the States by practically denying the right of the people of the State of Louisiana to hold a Convention for the purpose of proposing amendments to their State Constitution It is peculiarly gratifying to witness the magisterial air with which he addresses Gov Wells, requiring him to render to "Andrew Johnson, President," a reason for his conduct in convening or permitting to convene, an assemblage of persons hostile to "my policy." What business have the "radical traitors" of Louisiana to hold a Convention in opposition to the wish of returned Confederate loyalists? "Treason must be made odious", therefore the only truly loyal men of Louisiana must give up their State to the "reconstructed" Confederates.

The boast of the President is that his "policy" is working miracles in the way of allaying violence, establishing peace, and inducing harmony among the people of the South The state of things that exists in Louisiana is a specimen of what that "policy" does actually produce. Instead of harmonious feeling there is violence and bloodshed, instead of security there is lawlessness, rapine and murder The country is now witnessing the results of that statesmanship which has undertaken to teach obedience to law by letting traitor criminals go unpunished, and by exalting them above loyal men.

The President's message in regard to the Constitutional amendment, and the manner in which it has been received by Congress and the Union party throughout the country, reminds an Eastern journal of the lines

> "I can't marry you, my pretty maid,
> Nobody axed you, sir, she said"

This tells the whole story.

One of the most curious facts of the period, and one of the wise mysteries of "my policy" is the imprisonment of the Fenian leaders, while leading traitors against the United States Government are allowed the liberty of pardon or parole.

A. Johnson telegraphs to the Governor of Louisiana, asking by what authority he calls a Convention in that State "By what authority does A. Johnson call his Convention at Philadelphia?

Old Thad. Stevens says "The Vice Presidency ought to be abolished, for its success thus far does not justify its continuance" "Moses" never received a neater thrust than that

The last regiment of Illinois soldiers (the 12th Cavalry) in the service of the Government, was discharged at Springfield in the month of June

The Mountaineer of the 3d contains the following

A RICH LEAD

We were shown during the week, at the assay office of Mr C. S. Miller of this city some very rich silver ore, from a lead recently discovered in the Flint District, Owyhee The lead is called Sherman or Poorman of Flint District" and was discovered by Mr L. J Swart formerly of this city Mr Miller has made two assays from the rock, the first of which produced $48 16 in gold and $2,559 74 in silver and the second, $33 10 in gold and $2,648 05 in silver to the ton The lead is seven feet wide, and has been traced for about a mile The ore assayed by Mr Miller was not selected, but is an average of the rock taken from the mine It is thought that this lead will far outrival the original Poorman lead of Owyhee in richness and extent when it is fully developed We congratulate Swart on being one of the "Poorman of Flint District."

FROM PEND OREILLE LAKE

Mr Twitchell arrived in town from Pen d'Oreille Lake a few days since He reports quite a settlement springing up at the lake. Several houses are being built, and a good trade is destined to set in there The machinery for the boats now being built on Clark's Fork, was shipped by the way of White Bluffs to the Lake Teamsters are hauling freight over the road from White Bluffs to the Pen d Oreille at one cent per pound less than from Wallula The road is in fine order and teamsters express the opinion that it is the best mountain wagon road west of the Cascades. Whatever may be said of the White Bluffs route, it is certain to be the main traveled road to the Montana mines The best indication of the road being a good one is, that teamsters are hauling freight over it at one cent per pound less than by other routes The cost of transportation always indicates the best route

CHICAGO July 3d.—The following are the names of delegates to the Philadelphia Convention J H Browning, T J Evans A J Cook Jno. McClernand Wm H Morrison, T L Dickey, Saml G Marshall Jesse O Dorton, S W Ross Anthony Thornton James Chambers, J R Doolittle, Alex W Botntalt and Chas Crock or The above are from Illinois.

From Minnesota.—Jas Norton Franklin Steele H M Rice From Florida, Wm McEwen Geo. Swans Jno S Maxwell. Delegates are being generally appointed in the Southern States of the most eminent military men

The New York Times having editorially declared it would be imprudent for such men as Vallandigham and the Wood brothers to appear as delegates, Vallandigham publishes a defiant letter defying the Convention to exclude him or any other who may appear He says bygones must be by-gones and he and his party have more to forgive of Doolittle & Co than they to forgive of him

The Georgia Convention declares its intention that the Convention shall unqualifiedly pronounce for a repeal of the test oath, which the call for the Convention does not

George Ashmun and John Q Adams son of the Minister to England, have joined the movement in Massachusetts The Boston Traveler regrets to learn that Charles Francis Adams accedes to it Judge Benjamin R Curtis publishes a letter endorsing the movement.

Doolittle, in a speech at Madison declares that the only qualification for membership to the Convention, is that the delegates unqualifiedly accept the terms laid down in the call and abide the issue with the new party when records of individuals shall be forgotten The Convention promises to be a large and distinguished assemblage and as the number of delegates is not limited all rival setts will be admitted Indeed certainly there is no power to exclude any who accept the terms of the call The Philadelphia Age of yesterday exposes what it calls a Radical plot to mob the Convention

The Louisiana Convention

CHICAGO, Aug 3.—The Louisiana Convention did not as was expected re-assembled yesterday but Judge Abel again charged the jury that they should indict the members for disturbing the peace and plotting against the statutes of the State. He declared that the cause of the riot had no parallel in history

The following additional telegraphic correspondence is published

EXECUTIVE OFFICE, August 1st 1866

To Albert Voorhies, Lieut. Governor, and Adrian Herron Atty General, New Orleans, Louisiana Were the civil authorities State or Federal conferred with by General Baird before he declared martial law? Could not civil authorities State and Federal, enforce the law and preserve order with the aid of the military and without the necessity of martial law? I hope that order has been restored and the riot was not as disastrous as reported. Please show this dispatch to General Baird

(Signed.) ANDREW JOHNSON

In order that the following from Gen Sheridan may be understood, it should be stated that he was absent from New Orleans when the disturbance occurred in that city.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 1st 1866.

To Gen U S. Grant, Washington You are doubtless aware of the serious riot which occurred in this city on the 30th. The Convention of 1864 met on the 30th for the alleged purpose of remodeling the present constitution of the State The leaders were politicians, and the action of the Convention was liable to produce a breach of the public peace I had made up my mind to arrest the men if the proceedings were calculated to destroy the tranquility of the country, but I had no cause for action until they committed an overt act About forty whites and blacks were killed and about one hundred and sixty wounded. Everything is now quiet but I deem it best to maintain military supremacy in the city for a few days until the matter is fully investigated. I believe the sentiments of the general community is one of general regret at this uncalled for cruelty and that the police could have made any arrests they saw fit without sacrificing lives.

FROM THE NORTH.

Arrival of the California—Union of the Colonies.

VICTORIA, Aug 3.—The steamer California from San Francisco arrived to-day and will leave to-morrow for New Westminster News received by the mail to-day states that a bill uniting the colonies of Vancouver Island with British Columbia has been introduced into to the Imperial Parliament and allows the united Parliament twenty-three members

Answered.

The Herald makes this inquiry

> We ask the Oregonian if it wouldn't be just as honest to specify the party pledge which Mr Doolittle has violated, as it would to persist in [illegible] him with vituperative epithets; without specifying any charges?

We had thought that Doolittle's recreancy to the principles he once professed was so glaring that no person could need to have his obliquities enumerated one by one, so as to decide whether he is now true or false to his party But as his friend of the Herald, who saw him in Washington in 1862, and who there received assurances from him that he would yet go back to the Democratic party, asks this question, we will "specify" one or two of the "party pledges he has violated" The Union party took the position that treason to the Government of the United States is a crime. Mr Doolittle concurred in that view at the time of his election in 1864, and until within the last year He has repudiated that principle, and now holds with A H Stephens and the editor of the Herald that the late war which was forced on the country by the South was nothing more than a legitimate species of argument resorted to by Jefferson Davis and his confreres to decide the controversy between the States and the National Government—to determine whether the Union should be maintained or the South have its independence, and that as the employment of this species of argument by the South, was, under the circumstances, permissible and proper, resistance to the authority of the United States was no crime. In short, Mr Doolittle has forgotten his former phillippics against treason and holds that the rebels by their conduct have forfeited no rights, that the moment they ceased to resist they were entitled to claim all the immunities of citizens and that as they committed no treason, they are not liable to punishment. This is essentially his position, though he disguises it somewhat by general phrases and unmeaning terms It was not his position when he was elected, any more than Johnson's position when he fulminated against treason is the same as that held by him now We "specify" therefore that Doolittle and Johnson have violated the pledges they gave to deal with treason as the most heinous crime that can be committed against our laws

Again, Doolittle is on the record in favor of the abolition of slavery He was elected Senator on that issue. His party had a right to expect that he would not only labor for the nominal overthrow of that accursed institution, but that he would also see that the freedom of the late slave was (in the language of the Constitution) "enforced by appropriate legislation." Yet what does he do? When a bill is proposed in Congress to give an emancipated people the power to defend their persons, to protect their property and to enforce those rights without which the name of freedom would have been a cheat, Mr Doolittle votes against it! Here we "specify" again the party pledge he has broken That his constituents regarded him as having violated his faith toward his party, is evidenced by their having at once asked him to resign

Furthermore, he is guilty toward his party of now conspiring with its enemies to overthrow it This is a thing which no person of political or moral rectitude will do. The Union party has the same aims now as when it honored the ingrates who are seeking to destroy it The crimes which are punishable are not the only crimes There is (or should be) a legal penalty for him who betrays his country. For him who betrays his friends the law provides no punishment The betrayer of his party is also exempt from legal prosecution But in a moral sense how much better is he who betrays his party than he who betrays his private friends? He who seeks elevated place only to disappoint the hopes and frustrate the aims of the party which has trusted him, is only less reprehensible than he who proves a traitor to his whole country

Doolittle is a representative of a certain class of men who have acted with the Union party heretofore but who are quitting it now In singling him out, we have merely desired to speak of him as an example of the rest Ab uno disce omnes

The election for Chief and Assistant Engineers of the Fire Department at the Dalles, will take place on Monday the 6th.

The Willamette Manufacturing Company at Salem has laid the foundation of a large warehouse adjoining its flouring mills.

The annual "Exhibit" of Jackson county finances shows receipts, $10 402 53 expenditures $11 695 08, outstanding county orders, $1,360 80 total indebtedness exclusive of delinquencies to the State, $13 779 23

Work has been resumed on the Davenport tunnel and from indications it is thought that the workmen can not be far from the lead The rock through which the tunnel is being run is very hard and but a few inches can be drilled per day So says the Sentinel

The farmers in the [illegible] south of this place (Salem) inform us that the squirrels this year are destroying large quantities of grain and appear in great numbers having evidently received reinforcements for the fall campaign So says the Agriculturist

A correspondent asks us Has Postal Agent Q. A Brooks a successor in Oregon or is he the sole agent for this coast? Mr Brooks is the only agent on this coast and all postal communications should be sent to him, at San Francisco.

The largest lump of gold we have ever heard of being found in the Northern mines was taken out a few days since at Olive Creek It weighed eighty five pounds and had fifty pounds of pure gold. So says the Mountaineer The lump is a large one and so is the story

Sixteen Snake Indians were recently captured by the soldiers at Ft Klamath and confined in the guard-house Their women and children numbering about forty, have been placed on the Reservation On the 15th three of the imprisoned Indians attempted an escape One of them was shot and killed

A farmer answers through the Agriculturist the inquiry "How to kill rose bushes" some time since published in that paper, from a farmer in Lane county He says "My plan has been to graze them to death with sheep and it has been quite successful The sheep if allowed, or compelled to run among them continue to eat the leaves and buds, while starting and growing and the bushes with this savage treatment soon die out, root and branch"

The Sentinel says Perhaps there is no place of equal extent on the Pacific coast that offers such inducements to the tourist the painter, the angler, the hunter or the invalid as this county, (Jackson) * * * Scarcely a week passes without its hunting party and they come back regretting only that they could not stay longer We hear of several companies that intend going out next month, when the mountain huckleberries will be ripe and the hunting and fishing season will be in its prime

Says the Mountaineer "By letters received from Canyon City we learn that the miners in that country are all doing well. The diggings on the Main John Day are paying beyond the expectations of the miners The mines on Olive and Elk creeks are also turning out better than was anticipated The Indians have again made their appearance on the road, and the old work of running off stock has commenced"

NEW TO-DAY.

BASE BALL.—The match game of base ball, played on the grounds of the "Pioneer Club" of this State, in this city last evening, was very successfully performed. The ides were pretty evenly chosen, and the Captains drew out for their selection of the players, after the lists were ormed. The results of the match, which are given be- ow, shows conclusively that the "Pioneer's" can safely hallenge any similar organization for a match, and be lmost sure of winning, with picked players. As com- ared with a game played at San Francisco on June 24th, etween the "Atlantic Club" of that city, and "Lincoln Club" of Oakland, the victory belongs to the Club of this city, by a score of from three to eleven runs, and it beats a match made by the "Rocky Mountain Club," of Vir- ginia City, Montana, by several runs on each side, the fielding being so close that there were no runs made in some of the innings. We consider that the "Pioneer Club" have established for themselves a reputation of some consequence, by last evening's exercise. There was a tolerably fair attendance, but some of the visitors were disappointed, having arrived on the ground at the conclusion of the game. We trust we shall witness more playing of this kind soon. The following is the report of the scorer:

MEMORANDA.

Base was made on passed balls: Law 3, Miner 3; J. Upton 2; Witherell 1.

Steel 1; Ladd 3; Parrish 3, Barstow 1; C. Upton 2.

Steel put out 4; Buchtel 3, Wadhams 3; Parrish 1, Barstow 12; C. Upton 2; W. Warren 2.

Law put out 4; Miner 5; J. Upton 4; Witherell 6; Wheelock 4; F. Warren 3; Burgess 1; White 1.

Law was out 2; Miner 3, J. Upton 3; Witherell 3; Wheelock 2, F. Warren 4; Burgess 5; White 5.

Steel was put out 2; Buchtel, 2; Ladd, 4; Wadhams, 3; Parrish, 3; Barstow, 7; C. Upton, 3; W. Warren, 3.

The fielding was so close that no home runs were made during the game by either nine. The expertness dis- played by both sides is deserving of high commendation. The batting was excellent. Notwithstanding the irregu- larity of the field, the record shows that but two balls were missed. The weather was highly favorable, being cool, cloudy and still. The Batting Nine—Capt. Steel—won by but 4. The Fielding Nine—in three innings, played after the match—won by 5. L. ANDERSON, Umpire.

AN AVALANCHE.—Mr. John Brazee, who has lately been out in the vicinity of Mount Hood, surveying for a route by which Hood river can be turned into Mill Creek, for the purpose of furnishing a water power at Dalles City, has returned. On Saturday last he, and the party with him, witnessed one of the most magnificent scenes [illegible] ever beheld by man in this State, being no less than the slide of an immense quantity of snow on Mount Hood. The field was of such large proportions, and moved with such great velocity that the air above was filled with particles, so completely that it seemed like one dense mass of light dust. After it had cleared away Mr. B. examined the locality minutely with the aid of a glass, and he judges that the snow moved at least three- fourths of a mile, and the gap laid bare on the side of the [illegible] was considered to be nearly five miles in ex- tent from each extremity. It must have been a grand sight. We learn that a party of gentlemen, who have been to the [illegible] on an excursion recently, were traversing the snow in that locality but a day or two [illegible] to the slide. To have been upon it on Satur- day, at the time of the occurrence, would have been their almost certain destruction, and that they were not there was most fortunate, and may very properly be considered by them a "hair breadth 'scape." The atmosphere in the direction of Mount Hood has been hazy for some days past but the spot can be seen from Portland quite dis- tinctly the first clear day, as it is on the south west side.

GOING AHEAD.—The weather is at present very favor- able for the building interests of our city, and the several really excellent structures in process of erection are rap- idly going ahead. Mr. R. M. Burton has the work well started on the brick block of Messrs. Ainsworth, Reed, Brown, and others, 200 by 90 feet, adjacent to the wharf of the Oregon Steam Navigation Company, which was so long interrupted by the high water. The same [illegible] has two fine two story brick buildings up for Beller and Brown, opposite Arrigoni's, and one at the corner of Front and Alder, for Mr. Binnauer, three stories high, is progressing rapidly. Messrs. Goodenough & Clark are building for Messrs. Ravier & Co., on Front st., below Oak, which will be "A No. 1." This building is two stories in hight, 50 by 80 feet, the lower floor divided into stores, and the upper floor one room, with high ceiling, calculated for a hall. Mr. John Nestor is pushing the work along on a corner building for Mr. C. M. Carter, three stories, of brick, 50 feet on Front by 100 on Alder, which will be a credit to the en- tire [illegible] portion of the city. The same gentleman is preparing to build immediately, for Mr. Walter Moffitt, a two story brick, at the corner of Front and Main. Sever- al new brick buildings have been built the present [illegible] that are occupied. On all of these buildings, with one exception, we notice that the iron materials for the front bears the imprint of our home foundries.

VALUABLE DONATION.—Dr. L. A. Davenport has liberal- ly donated to the Portland Library Association, six vol- umes of a rare work entitled "Mineral, Vegetable, and Animal Chemistry," accompanied by an atlas "Classica," a select maps of ancient geography. These works are rare and of great value, and will be highly prized by bibliographers. Dr. Jackson, of Polk county, has also presented the Association with the complete works of Emanuel Swedenborg, including his celebrated "Arcana Coelestia," and "Apocalypse Explained," in all about 25 volumes. The Association is also indebted to the liber- ality of H. W. Corbett, Esq., for a donation of $100 in aid of the Library fund, and to Mr. E. St. John for a handsome bust of Everett. We are gratified in an- nouncing these additions to the attractions of the rooms. The Library numbers now upwards of 2,000 volumes of miscellaneous works, to which additions are constantly being made. Those of our citizens not already members [illegible] very desirable for literary ease and [illegible], and applications for membership may be [illegible] daily, from 12 to 1 P. M., and from 7 [illegible] evening. Initiation fee $5; monthly dues, $1. The following are the officers for the ensuing year: [illegible] President, Henry Failing, Recording Sec- retary; [illegible] Miner, Secretary. Directors—W. S. Ladd, [illegible], P. C. Schuyler, Jr., B. Goldsmith, [illegible] Corbett, Chas. E. Caird, [illegible]

A [illegible].—Mr. David Ridcout has invented a [illegible] barrows, for use in the mines where tim- [illegible] may be both cheaply and readily made. The [illegible] are made of staves clasped by iron bands and a cast socket and pinion at each end of the tree. Common oak barrel staves are as good as anything to make them of. The advantage of the wheel is that it can be made anywhere and taken to pieces at will. In places where timber is scarce, the wheel will be introduced and used generally. Mr. R. is at present in this city putting up a lot of them for ship- ment to Owyhee and Boise.

VERY LIKELY.—A gentleman who lost a package of money recently, advertised it in the OREGONIAN. He says this is the first instance in which he has found that adver- tising did not pay, but he believes that the fault of his not getting the money back is more to be attributed to the dishonesty of the person finding the package, than to [illegible] lack of the benefits of advertising. Very likely this [illegible]. But to place another construction upon the circum- stance it may be that the money is in the hands of some [illegible] person who is not in the city, but who is likely to see the advertisement, and will return the package.

THE THOROUGHFARES.—A communication from one of [illegible] enterprising citizens, containing some excel- lent suggestions relating to the above subject, is unavoid- ably delayed until our next issue. The importance of this [illegible] is such that we regret leaving the communication [illegible]; we shall present it on Monday. In the mean- time we hope our citizens generally will reflect over the subject as it was presented yesterday in these columns.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.—The public schools of this city will begin the new term on Monday next. We learn [illegible] that a full corps of teachers has been [illegible], and it is very desirable that the attendance on the first day should be full, that the classes may be prop- erly formed. Parents will make a note of this.

THE CONTINENTAL.—We learn that the propeller Conti- nental, made famous by the "Mercer girls" scheme, and now owned by the California, Oregon and Mexico Steam- ship line, is to take the place of the Oriflamme soon, in order that some other alterations to the machinery of the latter may be made.

GOOD MUSIC.—The rapid advancement to a proficient degree which is now being made by the Mechanic's Brass Band, is the remark of every one. Good music is the soul of any city, and this being the case Portland has an ex- cellent one.

THE SHERIFF'S OFFICE.—Sheriff Stitzel's office is now [illegible] the new Court House.

TO SAIL.—The steamship Fidelity, Capt. Erskine, [illegible] at 2 o'clock P. M. to-day.

There will be auction sales at Kilbourn's to-day. See advertisement.

FROM MONTANA.

The Montana Post of July 14th contains the following items:

IMMIGRATION.

The immigration overland from the Atlantic States has begun to make its appearance. Several trains came into town during the week. Those who have arrived inform us that there are thousands more on the way, and that in the course of three or four weeks there will be more "tender feet" here than ever came in one batch before. We say, let 'em come! There is no country in the world that offers stronger inducements to immigration than Montana. Our valleys are broad and fertile, our mines rich and extensive, our quartz veins wide and deep; and we say again, let 'em come. They will find employment and remuneration therefor accordingly.

ROAD FROM WALLA WALLA TO BLACKFOOT.

Mr. Bacon, the pioneer expressman from Walla Walla to Helena and Blackfoot City, arrived in town on Tues- day last, making the trip from Lewiston, Idaho, to this place in eight and a half traveling days. From him we learn that the fifty thousand dollars, which were appro- priated by Congress some time ago, to construct a wagon road from Idaho Territory to Montana, is now being ap- plied to open a thoroughfare between that city and Lewis- ton in the former Territory. A Mr. Bird, of Mount Pleasant, Iowa, has charge of the work, and will do all toward completing it that can be done with so small an amount of funds.

THE CROPS.

Crops in all parts of the Territory, except where in- jured by the grasshoppers, are reported to be very prom- ising. The upper valley of the West Gallatin has thus far escaped the pest; and the wheat is heading out. The crop will be a large one.

PROSPECTIVE TROUBLE WITH THE INDIANS.

It is reported that the Indians left Laramie, after their failure to make a treaty, with a determination of making an attack on the emigrant trains, now en route for this city by the Powder river route. We may expect to hear of massacres in that direction, as a large number of wag- ons are still beyond the Yellowstone. One of the causes of their refusal to treat was that the commissioners would not stipulate to abandon this road.

A CHAPTER OF ACCIDENTS.

Accidents upon the road have been quite frequent du- ring the past week. On the 7th inst., as Holladay's coach was crossing the Prickly Pear Divide, on its way to Vir- ginia, one of the wheels struck a rock upon the side of the road, while the vehicle was going at a rapid rate, thus throwing off the driver, John Warner. John Washburn, who was sitting beside him, was able to retain his seat until the bottom of the hill was reached, when the stri- king upon another rock sent him flying. This left six horses before the coach, going it alone, and six pas- sengers inside, at their mercy. Disastrous consequences were prevented by some parties upon Oliver's coach, (which was now reached by the runaway team,) who jumped off and stopped the free easy career of the jolly coach and six. We are glad to learn that neither of the parties thrown off were injured to any extent. We have heard several rumors of other turn-overs upon the Hol- laday line, and a ridiculous picture has been drawn for us of three or four passengers being plunged into Prickly Pear creek, for a summary cool off, on the 5th.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

We condense from the Post:

On the 9th, B. F. Stafford was severely injured at He- lena, by the kick of a horse.

The Helena District Court for July had commenced its sitting, with nearly a hundred cases on the docket.

The Helena Republican received its press and material on the 10th, and would soon be issued.

Guirelts & Co. have drawn off their line of stages be- tween Virginia and Helena.

The Post is now printed with brevier and nonpareil type, on a Campbell's patent cylinder power press.

Julia Dean Hayne had arrived at Virginia. She is to open at the People's theatre, supported by Belle Douglas and B. S. Mortimer.

Over a dozen quartz discoveries were recorded at Vir- ginia between Monday 9th and Saturday 14th.

The mines on Alder gulch are paying much better than formerly.

The editor of the Post has been shown some rich and beautiful garnets from the lode at Summit.

Grant County Contested Election.

Howard, plaintiff, vs. Berry, defendant; contested elec- tion for Sheriff of Grant County.

TESTIMONY AND PROOF.

1st. The poll-books returned from the precincts of Ol- ive, John Day, Elk and Union—precincts, not counted by canvassers, were produced and proven by the certificate of M. Goodwin, Clerk, and by the sworn statement of A. H. Morehead, former Deputy Clerk.

2d. The poll-book of Olive precinct showed that Berry had received 91 votes, and Howard 109 votes for Sheriff— book properly certified. Morehead testified that the poll-book was not returned properly sealed; that it was enclosed in a loose wrapper of paper, fastened by a twine string; and was rejected in the count for that reason, that it was delivered to the Clerk by one Coffin, express messenger. R. W. Neal testified, that he was one of the Judges of election in that precinct; that the Judges had no envelope or other means of sealing up and enclosing the poll-book, that they enclosed it as stated by More- head, administered an oath to Mr. Coffin, the messenger, to convey it safely to the Clerk; and that there was no mail or other means of conveyance.

3d.—The poll-book of John Day precinct showed that Berry had there received 43 votes, and Howard 91 votes for Sheriff. The book was headed, among other officers, as follows:

SHERIFF:

M. P. BERRY. T. HOWARD.

And at the bottom of the whole list of voters was a foot- ing-up of the votes cast, in figures, thus:

43. 91

And immediately beneath and on the same sheet with the figures, was this certificate:

"At an election held at the house of Frank Butler, in the precinct of John Day, in the county of Grant, State of Oregon, on the 4th day of June, 1866, the following named persons received the number of votes annexed to their respective names, for the following offices, to-wit:
Certified by us: D. N. Luce, J. H. Ford, W. D. Brooks
Attest: H. H. Davis, J. B. Whiteman, Clerks.

4th. The poll-book of Elk precinct showed for

SHERIFF.

M. P. BERRY. T. HOWARD.
60 102

Across the page, beneath the footing-up, was this cer- tificate:

"We the undersigned, Judges and Inspectors of the election of Elk Precinct, Grant county, State of Oregon, on June 4th, 1866, do certify that this is a correct and true copy of the votes cast."
Wm. Woolery, WM. F. Hooper, John N. Reid.
M. B. Hiss, F. S. Drury, Clerks of the Election.

5th. The poll-books of Union precinct showed that Berry had 42 votes and Howard had 50 votes for Sheriff. The poll-book was footed up as in the case of Elk pre- cinct, and immediately below the figures was the certifi- cate:

"This is to certify that this is a true and correct return of the election held at the house of W. B. Davis, in Union precinct, June 4th, 1866.
W. Conrad, S. C. Dodge, Moses Zook, Judges.
M. M. Broadaway, John S. Sanburn, Clerks."

6th. The poll-book of Rock Creek precinct was proper- ly certified and returned; but contestant claims that the election was held at Camp Watson, while the order of the court, creating that precinct, designated the "Rock Creek House" as the place of voting. Morehead testi- fied that Camp Watson was some four miles from the place known as "Rock Creek House."

7th. The poll-book of Granite precinct was not pro- duced.

Contestant claims that the votes given in Granite, Ol- ive, Elk, Union and John Day precincts were wrongly rejected by the canvassers; and that the votes given in Rock Creek precinct were illegally given by soldiers, who had no right to vote for county officers, and were not given at a proper place for voting, and claims that even if all the precincts were counted he would have a major- ity of 158 votes; and if Rock Creek precinct were rejected he would have a majority of 242 votes. Defendant denies that that the mentioned precincts were improperly re- jected; avers that the poll books pretending to come from those precincts were not such, and so certified, as would allow the canvassers to receive and count them; avers that in the precincts, properly subjects for canvass, he, defendant, has a majority, that contestant only re- ceived 197 legal votes, and, and he received 285 legal votes for Sheriff; avers that sundry votes cast for How- ard in Canyon City, John Day, Union and Vincent pre- cincts were illegal—the voters being either non-residents or foreigners, and denies the irregularity alleged in Rock Creek precinct. Defendant avers that no certificate has been issued to him; that he holds the office of Sheriff by virtue of an appointment by the Governor of Oregon, and should hold the same until a successor is elected and qualified. Contestant replied to this answer and the case was submitted.

FINDING.

No question being made as to the legality of the votes cast in the precincts of Granite, Elk, John Day and Union, it is presumed, then, that every person voting there had full right so to do,—nor is it questioned that proper poll-books had been furnished those precincts, and that the same books were returned to the Clerk. The point claimed by the defendant is that the poll-books were not certified to as required by law make them legal evidence, except as to Olive precinct, and the question there is that the poll-book was not properly sealed up.

Though I hesitate in fully concurring with the deci- sion of the Supreme Court of Oregon Territory, and have doubts as to the correctness of the broad rule of the law, as laid down by that Court in the case of Day vs Kent, Vol. 1, Ogn Rep., p. 129, I cannot but be bound by that decision until some case shall occur so marked as would impel me to decide adversely to their ruling. In that case there had been no poll-book sent to Cow Creek pre- cinct, and certain Judges and Clerks returned merely a statement that a certain number of votes were cast for certain candidates, without showing the list of voters, or the number of them, or for whom they voted, or that there were any voters properly in that precinct.

The Court in that case holds that even if no return had been made, yet in a contest for an office, before a court, the contestant could prove by parol or otherwise that cer- tain votes had been cast for him and sustain his right to the office, "for his rights would not depend on the acts or omissions of Judges and omissions of judges and clerks, but upon the votes of the people," and the Court pro- pounds this inquiry: "Is Day (the contestant) worse off with an imperfect return than he would be with no re- turn at all?"

Apply this rule to the case in hand. Both parties ad- mit the votes to be legal, that the voters had a full right to vote, and the voting had been done regularly, without fraud, but that omissions of Judges and clerks vitiated the whole election. I need not make further remark on this point than to make the clear statement. The rule laid down in Day vs. Kent is, that statutes prescribing the manner in which a public officer should perform an act are generally regarded as a directory, and admitting the officer to have power, his disregard for such statutes in doing the act, will not destroy the rights of an inno- cent person. p. 128 ib. The officers here had power; they attempted in one instance, at least, to do everything required, and inability alone prevented them. No fraud is alleged, no withholding of books or lists, merely an imperfect act in certifying to poll books. Surely on this point the case is very far within the rule in Day vs Kent.

Again, on page 130, the Court says: "Citizens, when they vote, acquire a right to have their votes regarded, and the person to whom they are given acquires a right to have them estimated in his favor, and it would be un- just, not to say absurd, to hold that all these rights are destroyed by the mistakes of all petty officers, who have to deal with the evidence of election." "Courts are not bound by the acts or decisions of canvassing officers, but are to hear parol or other competent evidence, and then give the office to him that appears to have a majority of legal votes for it."

In this case, the want of an envelope affects Olive pre- cinct. In the others, the certificates are more or less in- formal or defective.

No one can mistake as to who the voters were or as to how they voted. The footings of the columns as to each office are fully made up and the number of votes cast for each candidate are set opposite, or rather under his name, and then the judges and clerks certify that the book is correct. If the Supreme Court could decide the case of Day vs. Kent upon the evidence there, I cannot hesitate here when the proofs are so abundant.

As no evidence was offered as to the legality or illegali- ty of any particular voter or vote, and no evidence offer- ed on the subject of voting done by soldiers, I shall not enter at all upon those questions or upon any alleged ir- regularity in Rock Creek precinct, since upon the other points I am constrained to decide that contestant having received 705 votes, and defendant having received 548 votes for the office of Sheriff of Grant county, Howard has a right to the office, and that a certificate shall issue to him.

THE WRECK OF THE TEETH.—Is sure to follow the use of the many worthless preparations for the teeth now in the market. Remember that those pretended Dentists who cry down Sozodont all have some worthless article of their own which they will try and induce you to use. Do not be deceived; use nothing but Sozodont, a pure and infallible preservative of the dental substance.

THE COMBINATION OF INGREDIENTS USED IN MAKING "Brown's Bronchial Troches" is such as to give the best possible effect with safety. The Troches are used always with good success, and are widely known as the best rem- edy for Coughs, Colds, Throat Diseases, and Asthmatic troubles.

THE HUMAN FACE.—What vast expression is there in the human face. Julius Cæsar, Napoleon, Washington, Jackson, Grant and other great generals possessed mobility of features both on and off the field of battle to a wonderful degree. N. B.—To strangers I would say, that a constantly in- creasing Dental Practice for the last 4 years in this city, will be a sufficient guarantee for them to receive a First- Class and Finished Piece of Work. Numerous testimo- nials to the same can be given at the Office.

Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.—The stomach is the fountain-head of scores of diseases which infest the human system. Indigestion, bad enough, per se, generates diarrhea, dysentery, faintness, vertigo, palpitation of the heart, general debility, &c. Get rid of it, then, at once, by going through a course of

DR. HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS,

A palatable and refreshing preparation, which as surely relieves all complaints of the stomach and its dependen- cies, as the sunshine melts the snow. A course of the medicine may not perhaps be necessary. One bottle fre- quently accomplishes a complete cure. Sold by druggists and dealers everywhere.
jy20 HODGE, CALEF, & Co., 97, Front St

The reason why so many die with Con- sumption is because they neglect to use the proper remedy in season. When the system is first attacked with a cough, oppression of the chest, or seated pains in the breast, ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will cause the phlegm to raise, heals the irritated parts and restores the system to health. S. T.—1860.—X.

Persons of sedentary habits troubled with weakness, lassitude, palpitation of the heart, lack of appetite, dis- tress after eating, torpid liver, constipation, &c., deserve to suffer if they will not try the celebrated

PLANTATION BITTERS,

Which are now recommended by the highest medical au- thorities, and warranted to produce an immediate benefi- cial effect. They are exceedingly agreeable, perfectly pure, and must supercede all other tonics where a healthy, gentle stimulant is required.

They purify, strengthen and invigorate.
They create a healthy appetite.
They are an antidote to change of water and diet.
They overcome effects of dissipation and late hours.
They strengthen the system and enliven the mind.
They prevent miasmatic and intermittent fevers.
They purify the breath and acidity of the stomach.
They cure Dyspepsia and Constipation.
They cure Diarrhea and Cholera Morbus.
They cure Liver Complaint and Nervous Headache.
They make the weak strong, the languid brilliant, and are exhausted nature's great restorer. They are composed of the celebrated Calisaya bark, wintergreen, sassafras, roots and herbs, all preserved in perfectly pure St. Croix rum. For particulars, see circulars and testi- monials around each bottle.

Beware of impostors. Examine every bottle. See that it has our private U. S. Stamp unmutilated over the cork, with plantation scene, and our signature on a fine steel plate side label. See that our bottle is not refilled with spurious and deleterious stuff. Any person pretend- ing to sell Plantation Bitters by the gallon or in bulk, is an impostor. Any person imitating this bottle, or selling any other material therein, whether called Plantation Bitters or not, is a criminal under the U. S. Law, and will be so prosecuted by us. We already have our eye on several parties re-filling our bottles, &c., who will succeed in getting themselves into close quarters. The demand for Drake's Plantation Bitters from ladies, clergymen, merchants, &c., is incredible. The simple trial of a bot- tle is the evidence we present of their worth and superi- ority. They are sold by all respectable druggists, grocers, physicians, hotels, saloons, steamboats and country stores.

G. VENARD,

CHARTRES COFFEE!

Manufactory Established in June, 1851.

STEAM POWER, NOS. 625 AND 627 FRONT ST.

HAS CONSTANTLY ON HAND GROUND AND ROASTED COFFEE, GREEN COFFEE of the best qualities. CREAM OF TARTAR and SPICES of all sorts.

The undersigned, who has always enjoyed public confi- dence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his produc- tions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowl- edged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nev- ertheless, buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice.

Good Night

Good night my love, the tear-drop stalls,
But I must leave thee now
The light of stars is fading fast
Upon night's jewelled brow
The moon has touched the distant hill
The East is aglow with light,
I fold thee to my heart again—
Good night, my love, good night.

Good night, my love, may angels watch
Above thy peaceful sleep
And happy dreams within thy soul
Their sweetest vigils keep
And when the day shall come again,
To wake thee with its light
Then think of me then think of me,
My love, my love, good night.

Good night, my love, I turn again
To mingle in the throng,
But in my inmost heart of hearts,
I'll wear thee true and long
And wheresoe'er stern fate shall lead,
My love shall know no blight
I'll think of thee, will cherish thee,
My love, my love, good night

A GOOD THING.—The following translation from the Unsere Zeit, (German,) of May 30th, is about the best take-off on the assuredly ridiculous twaddle sent from Fortress Monroe regarding Jeff Davis that we have seen

Official bulletins regarding the health of the distinguished prisoner, Jefferson Davis, which were recently transmitted to His Majesty, Monsieur Veto, as per order

FORTRESS MONROE, May 23.

First Bulletin, 9 A. M.—His Excellency, ex President Jefferson Davis, has just been pleased to awake and arise from his couch Although the distinguished captive had an unbroken rest for twelve hours, he yawned twice within five minutes after awaking, which causes me much uneasiness

Second Bulletin, 10 A M—With much pleasure I have the honor to send you the cheering intelligence that the distinguished prisoner sneezed at five minutes and twenty three seconds of ten This important occurrence justifies the best hopes

Third Bulletin, 10½ A M—I regret to inform you that my anticipations were too hasty When we observed the prisoner at breakfast I noticed that he could dispose of only one beefsteak, one spring chicken, one dish of asparagus, and one plateful of green peas

Fourth Bulletin, 12 M—Great excitement prevails in all parts of the Fort. Notwithstanding the close attention which I constantly bestow upon the illustrious prisoner, I could not prevent his injuring himself in the upper joint of his left finger, while fastening his breastpin. The loss of blood was terrible. According to my superficial calculation he must have lost five and a half drops

Fifth Bulletin, 4 P M—The illustrious prisoner, after having his wound dressed, had a good rest of three hours I do not think that it will superinduce death To be prepared for the worst, I should recommend that twelve Assistant Surgeons be sent down

Sixth Bulletin, 5 P M—The distinguished prisoner's condition causes me more and more anxiety A half an hour ago he desired me to read the Intelligencer, which contained your last speech and that of your Secretary of the Treasury That his eyesight might not suffer I prepared to read the speeches to him. I had scarcely finished when the illustrious prisoner (for the first time since long,) spit out. In my opinion, a very bad sign I consider it absolutely necessary that the Surgeon General investigate the spittle, for which reason I shall transmit it, hermetically sealed, per next steamer

Seventh Bulletin.—The illustrious prisoner has just been pleased to retire with his illustrious spouse to his bed room, and as delicacy prevents me from following him there, I am compelled to break off my reports here for the present.

GEORGE E. COPPERHEAD,
Surgeon U. S. A.

JULIAN OF INDIANA ON DAVIS.—In a late address at Washington, George W. Julian, member of Congress from Indiana, spoke very freely of Jeff Davis The Chronicle says:

He alluded with cutting sarcasm to the account of Jeff. Davis' Imprisonment just published by Dr. Craven, remarking that if there was a meaner man on earth than Jeff. Davis, that man was Craven. There might be men South, and some Copperheads North, whose sympathies would be stirred by reading the book, but he (the speaker) was not able to see that the "stern statesman" had suffered so much, he remembered that atrocities perpetrated by him upon our prisoners, his plot to disseminate yellow fever and to lay waste Northern cities, and he understood that it was likely to be proved that he was connected with the plot to assassinate our martyr President Had Davis been chained to a rock like Prometheus, with vultures to gnaw his vitals, he would have no [illegible] for complaint. He asked for no such extreme punishment as that He had no desire for vengeance, but was opposed to mercy that could only be granted by trampling justice under foot.

NEW LAND DISTRICT IN OREGON.—A late [illegible] dispatch says:

The House has passed a Senate bill to authorize the President of the United States to establish an additional land district in the State of Oregon and to fix its boundaries, which district shall be named after the place at which the office shall first be established, and the President is from time to time, as circumstances may require, to adjust the boundaries of the various land districts in the State, and to change the location of the land office. A register and receiver are provided for, to reside at the site of the office, to receive the same fees and perform like services as other land officers in that State.

HOMESTEADS IN NEW MEXICO AND ARIZONA.—Both Houses of Congress have passed the bill extending the benefits of the pre-emption and homestead laws to citizens of the United States residing in towns or villages of New Mexico and Arizona, and who may be cultivating lands of the United States and are bona fide owners of the improvements thereon, even though they are not residing and have not resided on the lands.

ABUSES OF THE FRANKING PRIVILEGE.—The Postmaster General has sent a communication to Congress calling attention to the abuses of the franking privilege in the use of franks of members by claim agents, patent agents, etc The Postmaster General says this has become a serious evil, lessening considerably the postal revenues, and bringing reproach upon the department

The President has so far taken A J Rogers, Copperhead Congressman from New Jersey into his confidence, that he appoints to office on his recommendation.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Weekly Review

PORTLAND, August 3, 1866

The most attractive feature of business to note for the period passing in review is that of the complete success of the laying of the Atlantic telegraph cable. This great enterprise has been silently pushed ahead, and now the world stops for a moment to contemplate the achievement. The dream is one such as the world was never before called upon to conceive, and the reality is already having its effect. With the completion of this marvelous enterprise came the intelligence of the close of the war in Europe, and once more the great revolution in financial affairs seems to have been thwarted The effects of a crisis which threatened to shake the business world to its very center will now soon be over, and the greatest efforts of business men, in their peaceful pursuits, may be practically considered.

We find matters commercially and financially but little different to-day from that reported last week. Legal tender notes are moderately advancing, and may be quoted at 72@73cts. No alterations are observed in rates of exchange The money market continues tight, under numerous calls at full rates of interest, on the best mercantile paper or good collaterals.

Imports of merchandise are greatly in excess of present exports of produce, but it is noticed that there is more demand than usual for the lower grades of flour, and considerable bacon is changing hands, evidently for the purpose of being held for advances, which are anticipated.

The following paragraph relating to the vast quantities of salmon found running in the Columbia river, and its tributaries, we clip from the New York Journal of Commerce, credited to the Albion It will be new to most of our readers, and will undoubtedly astonish the oldest inhabitant

"The salmon sentries announce the appearance of the first fish, and all hands rush to commence the work of catching and curing This may be the best place in which to mention, incidentally that the salmon are indispensable to the existence of the inland tribes of Indians Nature supplies the tribes with fish with a lavish profusion incredible to any who have not seen the salmon run in these wondrous rivers Every stream becomes filled with fish that to throw a stone into the water without hitting one is almost next to an impossibility When I say that the Commissioner and myself (I need not mention names) found it extremely difficult to ride through a ford, in consequence of the abundance of the salmon thronging upward and onward to spawn, some idea may be formed of the incredible numbers that annually visit the rivers of the Northwest.

That statement, we are forced to admit, is terribly overrated The salmon fisheries of the Columbia are extensive, but not so extraordinary as the reader would infer by perusing the article from which we extract

The harvest is not garnered exclusively by the savages in this latter day, but the business has this season furnished profitable employment to many white persons and there is room for and liberal enterprises in that direction There are many places along the banks of the river from Chinook Point to the Cascades where capital may be invested in the salmon trade with profit, and we look forward to the time at no distant day when this will become one of the chief features of trade in our country The catch of this season is selling in the market at from $6 to $6 50 ⅌ half barrel

We observe with pleasure that the press of California have spoken in favor of the wants of commerce between that State, Oregon and Washington Territory, which for a long time has been overlooked This trade is now one of very important interest It has been rapidly growing with the development of the country until it has become one of the greatest elements of the commercial prosperity of the entire coast, but the measures of the general government in aid of navigation have not kept pace with its activity, by any means There is immediate necessity for prompt work in this respect and in addition to the suggestions advanced by us last week in favor of the placement of buoys at the mouth of the Columbia river, we quote the following from the San Francisco Bulletin.

There is necessity for the immediate erection of three light houses between the Golden Gate and the Columbia river A light of the first order ought to be established on Point Reys together with a steam whistle, as is the case at many places on the coast of England The latter on account of its power would be infinitely better than a bell and of material aid to the mariner in finding his way into harbor during the heavy fogs that are so prevalent on the coast at certain seasons First class lights are also required at Capes Mendocino and Blanco near which the Northerner struck in 1860 This was recommended by George Davidson of the United States Coast Survey, several years ago. In order to make quick passages it is desired for steamers to run within a few miles of land, and as the Pacific coast does not abound in good harbors in which vessels can shelter at the approach of a storm the necessity for a series of lights is increased The commerce of this portion of the Pacific has claims upon the bounty of Government which cannot and will not be ignored, and we trust our delegation in Congress will not fail to press the subject upon the attention of that body immediately

Congress having adjourned it is worthy that our people take definite action in the meantime to secure the recognition of our claims at an early day on the next assembling of our national councils

Wholesale and Jobbing Prices.

PORTLAND August 3, 1866

The markets are superabundantly supplied, and business is active with prices rather steady. With reference to trade, we are permitted to extract from the Jobbing Circular of Messrs McCraken Merrill & Co., July 25th

"Trade during the period under review has been fair A few merchants from Montana have made liberal purchases, and as the navigation to Lewiston is about to close, for the season orders from that quarter have come in freely among which Flour has been a prominent item although mostly for country brands. Idaho is also making a movement toward supplying her Fall and Winter Trade."

Domestic Produce Market.

PORTLAND, August 3, 1866

We hear of no offers of wheat, to any great extent. The subjoined quotations are advised, but the disposition to [illegible] at those figures is limited Oats are being supplied to a certain extent from California. Under date of July 26th, we quote the following regarding the markets of San Francisco from the California Farmer

"Our grain and produce markets promise much this week Later advices are of a favorable nature and lead us to believe that the future is full of promise There is scarce a doubt that we shall have a profitable market in the East, in addition to our foreign demand, There is nothing to give uneasiness or alarm, and were our supply ten-fold, markets would offer for it A demand for wheat has actually begun, several charters have been effected and a number of ships are loading for Liverpool, besides others for China and Australia. Agents for shippers or speculators are in the country making purchases, and that already secured is going forward as rapidly as possible, and going direct on ship-board unless it be an occasional lot thrown on the market, and reported sold at a low price to create an alarm in the minds of farmers and cause them to sell. It is certain the time has passed for a few speculators to control and dictate. Their tricks are known, and their movements watched, the admitted fact that our crops are the largest ever produced in California gives no alarm Our markets have increased in proportion The quality of our grain, wherever known, insures it a ready market at the highest price California is no longer in her infancy The products of her broad acres have made her known in all parts of the globe"

The Montana Post thus speaks with reference to the crops of that region

"Whether we consider the staff of life to be Wheat or flour, we have good reason to be satisfied. The supply in the Territory will be very large, by next fall—larger even than at present A careful estimate of our crops enables us to assume that at least 150,000 sacks of flour will be produced in the Territory, should the season be an average one, There is upwards of 5,000 acres of wheat now growing in the Gallatin valley alone, and more than 1 000 about Mill Creek neighborhood; while the Boulder, Deer Lodge, Bitter Root and numerous other valleys are equally well represented on the wheat question There will be 30 000 sacks of flour delivered in this town during next month, and 40 000 of Church flour from Utah, will be hauled into Montana, we are told, during the summer. The enormous emigration now covering every road to our Territory, is sure to bring with it an ample supply of cattle, and on the score of provisions we may rest content. Vegetables will also be produced in sufficient quantities for all our needs

The Willamette river is getting very low for trade, but still there is considerable produce daily arriving, principally for storage We quote prices to-day as follows
